In the sweltering summer of 1977, New York City plunges into chaos during a blackout. Five rogue cops, including Ray Butler and Eddie Boyle, devise a plan to rob the Hong Kong Triads, the Italian Mafia, and the Harlem Mob in one night. Ray, a recovering alcoholic, seeks redemption, while Boyle, facing indictment for corruption, sees the blackout as a divine sign to proceed. As they navigate a lawless city, they confront their morals and the fallout of their actions, struggling with years of being overworked and underpaid while attempting to seize one last opportunity. Alma Olsson (Roberts), a 40-something Swedish-American, is on the verge of becoming Yale's youngest tenured professor, with her only rival being her admired friend, Henrik (Garfield). At a dinner with students and her distant husband, Frederik, standout student Maggie, who idolizes Alma, reveals her dissertation rumors of excellence. The next day, Maggie accuses Henrik of rapping her after walking her home. Alma is torn between supporting Maggie or believing Henrik, who claims Maggie plagiarized her work and threatens to expose their affair. As Henrik is fired, Maggie publicly criticizes Alma's lack of support, forcing Alma to protect her reputation and a hidden secret Maggie may uncover.

Everyone at Bless Your Art in Sweet River, Texas, is excited about the Yarn Goddess (yes, that's her real name) coming to town. Ainsley McGregor has set up a special event at the local community center, but when old Mrs. Whedon doesn't see eye-to-eye with the Goddess about using quality yarn, a fight breaks out. Who knew the octogenarian had ninja moves like that? It's all fun and games until George Clooney, Ainsley's Great Dane, finds Ms. Yarn's dead body in a booth at Bless Your Art. Now the prime suspect is Mrs. Whedon, and while she's not the easiest woman to get along with, there's no way she's the killer. At least, Ainsley doesn't think so. As this yarn unravels, Ainsley and her quirky friends learn some interesting things about the case and the Goddess's checkered past. But there's a killer on the loose, and George may be the only thing protecting Ainsley from certain death.

A young adult comedy-drama inspired by Shakespeare and how he might have written in the modern day. All That Glitters is a modern retelling of Romeo and Juliet in a UK school setting, populated with anxious teens and TikTok scrollers. Ryan (Grihault) is the lighting technician for his school's play Romeo and Juliet, directed by his dad Philip (Ready), but struggles to keep his eye on the ball as he's hopelessly in love with the play's lead, Jasmine. As the story progresses, and to Ryan's surprise, one night, the ghost of Shakespeare himself appears in his room and offers to teach him the role of Romeo so he can star alongside Jasmine in the play. Initially hesitant, Ryan slowly comes around to the idea and auditions for the play with Shakespeare by his side. But with Jasmine's older friend Billy hanging around and her other potential Romeos getting in the way, how will Ryan ever capture Jasmine's heart?

Avatar: The Last Airbender takes place in a world that is divided into four nations: the Water Tribes, the Earth Kingdom, the Fire Nation, and the Air Nomads. “Benders” are people that have the ability to telekinetically manipulate and control the element corresponding to their nation, using gestures based on Chinese martial arts. The “Avatar” is the only individual with the ability to bend all four elements. The four nations once lived in harmony, with the Avatar, master of all four elements, keeping peace between them. But everything changed when the Fire Nation attacked and wiped out the Air Nomads, the first step taken by the firebenders towards conquering the world. With the current incarnation of the Avatar yet to emerge, the world has lost hope. But like a light in the darkness, hope springs forth when Aang (Gordon Cormier), a young Air Nomad — and the last of his kind — reawakens to take his rightful place as the next Avatar. Alongside his newfound friends Sokka (Ian Ousley) and Katara (Kiawentiio), siblings and members of the Southern Water Tribe, Aang embarks on a quest to save the world and fight back against the onslaught of Fire Lord Ozai (Daniel Dae Kim). But with a driven Crown Prince Zuko (Dallas Liu) determined to capture them, it won't be an easy task. They'll need the help of the many allies and colorful characters they meet along the way. The comedy centers on an unlikely friendship between sweet, shy, closeted Jack (Llewellyn) and boisterous, laddish and ever-so-slightly mature student Danny (Pointing). Jack has spent the past year at home with his potty-mouthed mum. He's been grieving for his father and she for her husband, but the time has now come for him to take his place at the local uni. There he meets his roommate Danny as the pair are thrown together during Freshers week, watched over by an entirely over-enthusiastic Student Union head. Jack and Danny are at significantly different places on the spectrum of masculinity but closely bond during the inevitable chaos and frenzy of a first year.

Taking its name from the 1934 ballad written by Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart, the film watches as Hart attempts to save face while celebrating his former partner Rodgers' great success on the night of his musical Oklahoma!'s Broadway opening. A prolific American songwriting duo known for their contributions to musical theater, Rodgers and Hart collaborated between 1919 and the early 1940s, with Rodgers serving as composer, and Hart as lyricist. During their time together, they created 28 stage musicals and penned more than 500 songs in total. In addition to "Blue Moon," iconic tunes from the duo include "My Funny Valentine," "The Lady is a Tramp," and "Bewitched, Bothered, and Bewildered," to name just a few. The partnership between Rodgers and Hart ended primarily due to Hart's increasing struggles with alcoholism and mental health issues, which made it challenging for him to work consistently. In 1943, Rodgers began a new collaboration with Oscar Hammerstein II to work on Oklahoma!, which was deemed revolutionary for its seamless integration of music, lyrics, and dance into the storytelling, setting a new standard for musical theater. The success of the show established Rodgers and Hammerstein as one of the most successful duos in musical theater history, leading to such other iconic works as Carousel, South Pacific, The King and I and The Sound of Music.

Brian and Margaret looks at the final ever television interview of former Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and journalist Brian Walden, and asks "whether the slow death of full-length political TV interviews puts modern democracy at risk." When two old friends, the 'much feared inquisitor', Brian Walden (Steve Coogan), and 'Iron Lady' Prime Minister, Margaret Thatcher (Harriet Walter), come together for their last ever TV interview in 1989, little do they realise they're about to embark on one of the most infamous political exchanges of all time. The 45-minute showdown became a national talking point and set in train a series of events that ended with Margaret's resignation. Afterwards, they never spoke again.

The half-hour comedy based on an Eli Manning sketch that aired on ESPN+, follows a hotshot quarterback (Powell) whose college career ends after bad behavior. He then disguises himself as the talented and affable Chad Powers, who walks onto a struggling Southern football team. Zahn will play Jake Hudson, the charismatic Head Coach of the show's flagging college football program. He's about to be put out to pasture when along comes the talented oddball Chad Powers (Powell) – and with him, one last shot at glory. Mattfeld will play the sweet and smart Ricky, the first female assistant football coach in Catfish History (University of Nashville) who is also the daughter of Catfish Head Coach, Jake Hudson. On the job for two months, she is fast-talking, pumped and eager to play a key role in the upcoming season. Also canny, with a good head on her shoulders, she may find Chad a tad odd, but is impressed by his tryout, later reminding him not to get too wrapped up in the newfound fandom. As a former college track star, she knows just how addictive it can be when one is idolized.

A true crime series, which is set against the funeral business in 1980s San Fernando Valley. The series will chart the chilling and twisted tale of the Lamb Funeral Home in 1980s Los Angeles. When David Sconce (Linklater) — the Machiavellian scion of a Bible college football coach and a church organist — takes the reins of the family business, the seemingly All-American clan begins a jaw-dropping descent from saints to sinners. Desperate to keep their funeral home afloat, Sconce engineers a sinister new business strategy, replete with human body harvesting and mass cremation. The series will paint a harrowing portrait of hubris against the neon greed of the era, where insatiable ambition turns a former football star into a SoCal sociopath.

Audrey Moss has a busy life as an emerging visual artist in Manhattan. Upon the recent passing of her grandmother Molly, she returns to her hometown of Cold Spring, Minnesota to help her mother Kay wind-down the family business, a very popular antique store. ...Molly loved to find lost objects, jewelry and the like, just so she could return the items to see the look of joy on the faces of the rightful owners. She always included Audrey in this sleuth-like hobby and they created a special and lasting bond. So, Molly left her granddaughter one last adventure: to find the owners of five lost treasures Molly has left in Audrey's care, all before Christmas Day. She recruits former childhood friend Finn to assist in the search. He's a private investigator by trade, so a perfect match. Not only do they find the owners of these lost treasures, Audrey uncovers an attraction to Finn she didn't realize was there.

Middle-aged couples Jack and Kate Burroughs, Nick and Anne Callan, and Danny and Claudia Zimmer are best friends who do everything together. As couples, they have weathered the flood of divorces that has beset their other friends. When one of the six decides to make a change in life, the other five are forced to examine their marriages, their friendships with one another, the true meaning of love, and their own personal foibles. Over the course of one year, the movie is set against the backdrop of four vacations they take together, one in each of the four seasons, with Antonio Vivaldi's associated suite of music introducing each. By their fourth vacation together, Jack feels that they need to "clear the air."

Giovannino Guareschi – I Don't Die Even If They Kill Me tells the ups and downs of the life of one of the best-known writers in Italian fiction, who, due to his strong ironic and irreverent tone, has often clashed with the institutions, and not only. An out of the ordinary story, between war, the publishing world, prison, concentration camps. There are two constants in his life: love for his sweet wife Ennia, always at his side, and love for his native land, the lower Emilian plain, which he will transform into the fortunate Mondo Piccolo.

It's summertime and 17-year-old Coley has found herself alone, again. Forced to move to rural Oregon after just losing her mother, she is in no position to risk her already fragile heart. But when she meets Sonya, the attraction is immediate. Coley worries she isn't worthy of love. Up until now, everyone she's loved has left her. And Sonya's never been with a girl before. What if she's too afraid to show up for Coley? What if by opening her heart, Coley's risking it all? They both realize that when things are pushed down, and feelings are forced to shrivel away, Coley and Sonya will be the ones to shrink. It's not until they accept the love they fear and deserve most, that suddenly the song makes sense.

The drama tells the story of life in the dystopia of Gilead, a totalitarian society in what was formerly part of the U.S. Facing environmental disasters and a plunging birthrate, Gilead is ruled by a twisted religious fundamentalism that treats women as property of the state. Season 5 follows June (Elisabeth Moss) in the aftermath of Commander Waterford's (Joseph Fiennes) murder and the consequences she must face for her role in the gruesome slaying. At a minimum, she will have to face off with his widow Serena (Yvonne Strahovski), and on some level Gilead. But mainly, she will be forced to redefine her identity and purpose, now forever changed. Meanwhile, Commander Lawrence (Bradley Whitford) works with Nick (Max Minghella) and Aunt Lydia (Ann Dowd) as he tries to reform Gilead and rise in power. But who knows what the Commander and Nick—who helped June get her hands on Waterford for the kill—have up their sleeves? Still in Canada, June, with the help of Luke (O.T. Fagbenle) and Moira (Samira Wiley), fight Gilead from a distance as they continue their mission to save and reunite with Hannah. (September 3 - February 19, 2025 | w/t “THE LIGHT”)

In the multi-camera comedy, old school, stoic Bobbie (McEntire) has owned a Tennessee tavern with her dad for the past ten years, and when he dies, she's shocked to learn that he has named 20-something Isabella co-owner of the business. Can she find it in her heart to welcome Isabella to the business. Peterman will portray Gabby, a bartender who has worked at the tavern for quite some time. She is a bit needy and dramatic and would have loved to be Bobbie's sister. Escobedo stars as Bobbie's sister Isabella, an enthusiastic 20-something, who has studied psychology and loves to analyze people. She is thrilled to start working at the tavern and is full of "great" ideas about how to bring it to life. Tokala will play Takoda, a waiter at the tavern with serious handyman skills and probably the kindest person you've ever met. Linn will play Emmett, a cook at the tavern who is described as a man of few words. Castelblanco will play Steve, the accountant for the tavern who does his work at the bar. He has OCD and doesn't like change.

Seymour returns as Harriet "Harry" Wild, a retiring university literature professor who is finding herself at one of life's crossroads. Season three picks up where season two left off with Fergus, guided by Harry, planning to contest Paula's custody claim to Liberty. But it is not plain sailing and there are some surprises in store along the way. The agency is still as busy as ever and Harry and Fergus have to find a way to balance work and life. This time out they're hired to prove the lead singer of Ireland's hottest boy band didn't kill himself, find out who decapitated a woman in a busy restaurant and served her head on a platter, discover who murdered a despotic director on the set of Ireland's leading daytime soap opera and work out how a mystery writer managed to shoot himself in a locked panic room without a gun. Closer to home, a good friend of Harry's calls on her for help when her estranged husband turns up dead in her fishpond and Harry and Fergus, along with Charlie, Orla and Lola, are in the midst of the action when a grieving father forces them to solve his daughter's case. Elsewhere, love is in the air when Glenn decides the time has come to pop the question to his long-time girlfriend, the light-fingered, Petra. And while love doesn't run so smoothly for Fergus and Lola this time out, Harry meets a charming fellow private detective and finds herself falling for him even though she's not sure she can trust him and finds him utterly infuriating.

Centuries before the events of A Game of Thrones, House Targaryen—the only family of dragonlords to survive the Doom of Valyria—took up residence on Dragonstone. Fire & Blood begins their tale with the legendary Aegon the Conqueror, creator of the Iron Throne, and goes on to recount the generations of Targaryens who fought to hold that iconic seat, all the way up to the civil war that nearly tore their dynasty apart. Considine will play King Viserys Targaryen, chosen by the lords of Westeros to succeed the Old King, Jaehaerys Targaryen, at the Great Council at Harrenhal. A warm, kind, and decent man, Viserys only wishes to carry forward his grandfather’s legacy. But good men do not necessarily make for great kings. Smith is Prince Daemon Targaryen, younger brother to King Viserys and heir to the throne. A peerless warrior and a dragon rider, Daemon possess the true blood of the dragon. But it is said that whenever a Targaryen is born, the gods toss a coin in the air. Cooke plays Alicent Hightower, the daughter of Otto Hightower, the Hand of the King, and the comeliest woman in the Seven Kingdoms. She was raised in the Red Keep, close to the king and his innermost circle; she possesses both a courtly grace and a keen political acumen. D’Arcy’s Princess Rhaenyra Targaryen is the king’s first-born child, she is of pure Valyrian blood, and she is a dragonrider. Many would say that Rhaenyra was born with everything... but she was not born a man. (w/t “RED GUN”)

A biopic about German mathematician Maria Reiche who pioneered research into Peru's mysterious Nazca lines in the 1940s, and then fought for their preservation throughout her life. Spanning a 50 square kilometre area in the Nazca Desert in southern Peru, the Nazca lines are a mysterious group of geoglyphs, forming geometric designs and the shapes of birds and animals when viewed from the sky. Reiche first moved to Peru in the 1930s to work as a governess after studying mathematics and languages at university in her native city of Dresden. She became fascinated by the lines after a trip to the Nazca Desert in the early 1940s and made it her life's mission to research their meaning and protect them. This passion brought with it trouble and danger but also give her a sense of peace.

In a remote corner of the North Atlantic, a group of friends fall down on their luck after their coal mining jobs dissolve due to a major fire. In a moment of questionable good luck, they get hired by an uncle to come work on his lobster boat. With money in their pockets and food on the table, the monotony of pulling up lobster pots turns upside down when the catch turns from lobster to bricks of hash, and later, kilos of cocaine. Soon, relationships get tested by outsiders and each other after an anonymous tip to Federal Agents brings an undercover officer to the otherwise sleepy town. The friends have to decide whether to stay the course or run for their lives before the paranoid and suspicious Uncle Huey turns from ships captain to undertaker.

In a dystopian future, fifty teenage boys join a brutal competition called The Long Walk; a walking marathon in which the last one alive is the winner. The walkers get three warnings if they stop along the Walk before they're shot by the supervising soldiers. For some, death comes naturally. Young Raymond Garraty starts the walk with a group of other boys who become his friends until their numbers drop and they must look out for themselves.

About how a crumbling painting depicting Christ in the Renaissance called The Salvador Mundi was restored and found to possibly be the final work of Leonardo Da Vinci around the time the master painter did the Mona Lisa. Moore will star as Dianne Modestini, an art restorer who saw something special in the painting, and painstakingly restored it. She and everyone else were surprised to watch it go from a $1000 estate sale item to the priciest painting ever bought, fetching $450 million by the time the auctioneer banged the gavel at the New York auction house Christie's. In between the restoration and sale, there were numerous mysterious twists, turns and controversies from the underbelly of the fine art world. But it all started with the original buyers who engaged Modestini, the wife of a dying legendary art restorer who took on a project which looked like a wreck when she got it. Skeptics said most of the paint visible in the finished product was hers and only a portion by Da Vinci. But Modestini found things under the top layer of paint that gave it gravitas as a masterpiece, like the position of the thumb that was similar to what Da Vinci painted in other works.

Cliff is an eccentric, young man living in the North American desert town of Mooncrest. He's pining after an ex and tumbling in-and-out of awkward romances with both men and women. His life is shaken by the unexpected arrival of his estranged birth mother, Marg, a steely, misfit who reminds him of himself. As Marg awkwardly inserts herself into his life, she brings with her, a range of dangerous and unanticipated consequences, sending Cliff on a wild misadventure he never saw coming. A loving tribute to toxic relationships and the misguided search for love that fuels them, Lunar Sway is darkly comedic character study about offbeat misfits in search of love in all the wrong places. Margarita, 26, with her distinctive giant red hair and an unbridled love for horses, lives a life unconstrained by societal norms. Lacking a filter, her blunt honesty often alienates others, leaving her jobless and living with her mother, Sandy. However, Sandy's battle with cancer brings urgency to Margarita's need for independence. Encouraged to find a job, Margarita secures a position at a Halloween store, a change that sparks a newfound self-assurance. This confidence leads her to join a dance troupe, engaging in a hobbyhorse dance routine. As she dedicates herself to mastering the dance for an upcoming competition, unbeknownst to her, Sandy's cancer worsens. Amid preparations for her performance, Sandy must find the strength to share the devastating news with Margarita, who remains focused on her imminent spotlight moment. The series follows three best friends — gay gentlemen of a certain age — who, after an unexpected death, decide to spend their golden years living together in Palm Springs where the wealthiest one lives with his mother and a naked Gen Z housekeeper. As a chosen family, they prove that no matter how hard things get, there's always someone around to remind you it would be better if you got your neck done. Lane will play Bunny Schneiderman while Bomer will be Jerry Frank. Lavin will take over as Bunny's mother, Sybil Schneiderman. A successful businessman with one foot in retirement, Bunny is forever in search of love, but he first has to be convinced he's worthy of it. Like her son, Sybil's strengths are her weaknesses: wise, caring, and iconoclastic — which sometimes means she's critical, smothering and amoral. Jerry left the Mormon Church and his marriage in his early 20s after his wife informed him and the rest of the congregation that he was a homosexual. Now a latter-day saint in the literal sense of the term, Jerry is pure of heart. He is also hard of body and soft of head.

Alain marries Virginie in the crypt of the Saint-Joseph oratory of Mont-Royal. On the surface, it will be the happiest day of his life – of their lives. Everyone is there, the bride's parents, the great friend, the narrator's parents – Lebanese from Egypt who immigrated to Quebec thirty years ago, divorced for twenty, who haven't spoken to each other for ten. But, as the celebration approaches, Alain is worse than ever. Insomnia is back, anxiety and illness too. And today, his cousin Édouard, his best man, his brother, is losing his footing, carried away by the crazy mechanics of a denial of biblical proportions. Alain prays that fate spares them, so that this great day will be one of them. one of celebration and healing. But a name resurfaces at the turn of a sentence, a cursed name brought up from the depths of his memory, where the shame and pain of the dark years lie, a name that is soon joined by a voice, a body, a story. A ghost becomes flesh, which has many faces. And everything we wanted to forget, everything we refused to see, everything we hated comes to claim its due. As we make our bed we go to bed. 1934. Now a private detective, Miranda Green leaves England for Egypt. She must investigate a murder perpetrated in a supposedly inviolable place: the British Embassy in Cairo, where a top secret document was stolen the same night. All those present in this closed place are suspected: the American photographer, the English student, the American actress, the Egyptian security guard, the ambassador interpreter, the Egyptian gardener and - why not? - the Ambassador himself. But who would have expected that a small group of Nazis would be behind a plot, risking to jeopardize both Buckingham Palace and the peace of the world?

Jackie does not like surprises. Chaos is the enemy! The best way to get her successful, busy parents to notice her is to be perfect. The perfect look, the perfect grades - the perfect daughter. And then... Surprise number one: Jackie's family dies in a freak car accident. Surprise number two: Jackie has to move cross-country to live with the Walters - her new guardians. Surprise number three: The Walters have 12 sons. (Well, 11, but Parker acts like a boy anyway.) Now Jackie must trade in her Type A personality and New York City apartment for a Colorado ranch and all the wild Walter boys who come with it. Jackie is surrounded by the enemy - loud, dirty, annoying boys who have no concept of personal space. Okay, several of the oldest guys are flat-out gorgeous. But still annoying. She's not stuck-up or boring - no matter what they say - but proving it is another matter. How can she fit in and move on when she needs to keep her parents' memory alive by living up to the promise of perfect? (July 22 - November 15, 2024)

A young mother unsatisfied with her seemingly perfect suburban life begins a torrid, erotic affair with the monster in her son's closet — a sexy, doesn't-give-a-fuck boogeyman called the Nightbeast. Every night, Amy escapes into a dream-logic realm beyond the closet door where she can live, party, and fuck the way she used to... without responsibility or repercussion. But Amy soon learns that there's no such thing as a harmless affair, even with an imaginary creature, as her two worlds increasingly begin to collide — with unexpected consequences for her family.

On Earth-90214 in the heart of New York City during the 1930s, Peter B. Parker loses his Uncle Ben to the Goblin and his carnie cronies. He then dedicates his time helping others at the houseless shelter that his Aunt May runs. While attending a rally where his Aunt May speaks out against the corrupt system that runs their city, Peter's passion for justice catches the eye of Ben Urich, a photographer at The Daily Bugle. When Goblin's Enforcers attack May and Peter, Ben defends the pair, and ultimately takes Peter under his wing at the Bugle. Peter confides in Ben about finding his uncle Ben killed and torn apart with rope marks on his body. He blames the Goblin's cronies and seeks to bring them to justice. When Peter discovers Ben is a heroin addict, drugged and unable to answer his phone, he gets a tip meant for the “Spider” that leads him to Goblin's goons at the Rooney Imports Warehouse on the pier. It's here that they're picking up a shipment of antiques previously headed to the Metropolitan Museum, and in dropping one of the containers, a bunch of spiders are let loose. One of them bites Peter and tells him a bite brings death to those of evil intent, but will bestow the curse of power on him instead. Peter receives arachnid-like abilities from the bite and becomes the Spider-Man. (w/t “OLD FASHIONED”)

The story follows Oliver (Jogia) and Ciara (Cameron), who, after meeting randomly in a supermarket, fall for each other fast, and dangerously hard. 56 days later, homicide investigators arrive at Oliver's apartment to find an unidentified body — brutally murdered and intentionally decomposed. Did he kill her? Did she kill him? Intercutting between an intense single day in the present investigation and the twisted trajectory of the young lovers' affair in the past, the series is both a crime story and an erotic, psychological thriller. Overcompensating is a college-set ensemble comedy about the wild, chaotic journey of Benny (Skinner), a closeted former football player and homecoming king, as he becomes fast friends with Carmen, a high school outsider on a mission to fit in at all costs. With guidance from Benny's older sister and her campus-legend boyfriend, Benny and Carmen juggle horrible hookups, flavored vodka, and fake IDs. Deeply funny and personal, the show explores the lengths to which we all overcompensate while on the path to finding out who we really are. (July 8 - September 24, 2024)

Skite'kmujua'kik is an Indigenous supernatural thriller rooted in the approach of L'nu oral storytelling and worldview. The elements in the script come from the notion that we do not see time as a line, but as a circle with multiple “realities” around us at all times. The characters are interact with younger versions of themselves, their ancestors, and descendants/people from the future. This story is ultimately tied to the land. When Mi'sel and Antle venture to find their father's remains they engage with the land and the history it holds (both backwards and forwards). This relationship is where our language and culture springs from and cannot be separated from L'nuk. It is a vital component of this story, but it isn't some mystical connection—it comes from the need to survive and know a place as deeply as possible. The notion of healing inter-generational trauma is a large theme of this script. At the heart of it all is a wound that hasn't been healed, or allowed to heal. Both siblings weren't ready to address the trauma of their past. By going on this journey to put their father's remains to rest they are confronted with past versions of themselves. The story is not science-fiction genre but more in the realm of dramatic thriller with supernatural elements. (August 7 - September 25, 2024 | aka “SKITE'KMUJUA'KIK”)

A sci-fi thriller that follows physicist Jon Grady and his team who have discovered a device that can reflect gravity — a triumph that will revolutionize the field of physics and change the future. But instead of acclaim, Grady's lab is locked down by a covert organization known as the Bureau of Technology Control. The bureau's mission: suppress the truth of sudden technological progress and prevent the social upheaval it would trigger. Because the future is already here, and its rewards are only for a select few. When Grady refuses to join the BTC, he's thrown into a nightmarish high-tech prison housing other doomed rebel intellects. Now, as the only hope to usher humanity out of its artificial dark age, Grady and his fellow prisoners must try to expose the secrets of an unimaginable enemy — one that wields a technological advantage half a century in the making. Savvy Sheldon spends a lot of time tiptoeing around the cracks in her life: her high-stress and low-thanks job, her clueless boyfriend and the falling-apart kitchen she inherited from her beloved grandma—who taught her how to cook and how to love people by feeding them. But when Savvy's world starts to crash down around her, she knows it's time for some renovations. Starting from the outside in, Savvy tackles her crumbling kitchen, her relationship with her body, her work-life balance (or lack thereof) and, last but not least, her love life. The only thing that doesn't seem to require effort is her ride-or-die squad of friends. But as any home-reno-show junkie can tell you, something always falls apart during renovations. First, Savvy passes out during hot yoga. Then it turns out that the contractor she hires is the same sexy stranger she unintentionally offended by judging based on appearances. Worst of all, Savvy can't seem to go anywhere without tripping over her ex and his latest "upgrade." Savvy begins to realize that maybe she should've started her renovations the other way around: beginning with how she sees herself before building a love that lasts.

Sheriff's Deputy Mickey Price (Baccarin) grew up in the hills of Humboldt County, raised by hippy parents who were marijuana farmers. Over the years she has seen firsthand the violence surrounding the weed business. Her relatively quiet life is thrown into disarray with the retirement of Fred Watkins, her mentor. Mickey soon finds herself in a race for Sheriff... a race pitting her against her ex-husband Tim. Imagine her surprise when Tims family, the O'Brien's - old Edgewater logging money - come out in support of her candidacy as opposed to their son's. And when a murder rocks Edgewater, what at first seems cut and dried soon begins to lead Mickey to suspect there's corruption that runs deep ... even inside her own family.

After losing 20 straight games and running dead last in the four-team Triple A-level Northern Ontario Senior Hockey Organization (NOSHO), the Sudbury Bulldogs are faced with being completely shut down. Veteran player Shore ("Shoresy") in an attempt to save the team makes a bet with team general manager Nat that the team will never lose again if he's given a chance to take control. With the help of new coach Sanguinet, a roster of new players, and the dissolution of the team on the line, Shoresy sets out to prove that the Bulldogs can play as a team, get bums in seats, and make a name for themselves. Devon thinks her sister Simone has a really creepy relationship with her new boss, the enigmatic socialite Michaela Kell. Michaela's cult-ish life of luxury is like a drug to Simone, and Devon has decided it's time for an intervention. When Devon tracks her sister down to say WTF, she has no idea what a formidable opponent Michaela will be. Told over the course of one explosive weekend at The Kells' lavish beach estate, Sirens is an incisive, sexy, and darkly funny exploration of women, power, and class.

Take a trip to where it all began in this funny and warm look back on his formative years. Here we find a young Mark trick-or-treating at a used car lot, getting locked out of school on a fourth-floor window ledge, faking an asthma attack to avoid being arrested by military police, trying to buy beer from an untrustworthy cab driver, shocking his parents by appearing naked onstage--and much more. In an age where Humans and Fairies coexist, tragedy strikes the Human Realm when its King and Queen meet an untimely death. Their young son, now the sole heir, faces the daunting task of ruling a kingdom teetering on the edge of collapse. Overwhelmed by grief and fear, the child's plight moves the Faerie Queen, who compassionately spirits him away to the Faerie State, to preserve his innocence. Yet, this well-meaning act unwittingly deepens the crisis in the Human Realm. As the balance between the two worlds crumbles, a unique band of heroes emerges: The Poet, The Knight, The Horse and The Fae Princess. United by a common cause, they embark on a journey to locate the lost Prince and restore him to his rightful throne, in hopes of rekindling the equilibrium between the Human and Faerie worlds. The Terror: Devil in Silver tells the story of Pepper – a working class moving man, who through a combination of bad luck and a bad temper, finds himself wrongfully committed to New Hyde Psychiatric Hospital – an institution filled with the people society would rather forget. There, he must contend with patients who work against him, doctors who harbor grim secrets, and perhaps even the very Devil himself. As Pepper navigates a hellscape where nothing is as it seems, he finds that the only path to freedom is to face down the entity which thrives on the suffering within New Hyde’s walls – but doing so may prove that the worst demons of all live inside him. The psychosexual sci-fi drama, is set amidst a family holiday at a tropic resort, where Arthur (Quaid), a guilt-free bon viveur, surprises everyone by bringing his new beautiful and enigmatic girlfriend, Ivy (Debicki). Ivy's arrival and her odd behavior throws the already delicate dynamics off balance with Arthur and his daughters. Connie (Beetz) is still recovering from the trauma of a recent miscarriage and her older half-sister Laura can be a bit suffocating in her efforts to support her. One evening, after Connie gets very drunk, Ivy quietly reveals to her that she's actually an alien visiting Earth. While Laura is quick to write Ivy off as an aspiring trophy wife, Ivy's strangeness makes Connie, and with her the audience, question if she could actually be an alien. Before she knows it, Connie is being seduced by Ivy and invited to follow her back to her planet, an invitation that sound more seductive as the family drama heightens. But is Ivy really an alien? Or is Connie having a mental breakdown? Connie may have to take a leap of faith.

The Thursday Murder Club started out with a group of septuagenarians working on old murder cases culled from the files of club founder Elizabeth Best's friend Penny Gray, a former police officer who's now comatose in the village's nursing home. Elizabeth used to have an unspecified job, possibly as a spy, that has left her with a large network of helpful sources. Joyce Meadowcroft is a former nurse who chronicles their deeds. Psychiatrist Ibrahim Arif and well-known political firebrand Ron Ritchie complete the group. They charm Police Constable Donna De Freitas, who, visiting to give a talk on safety at Coopers Chase, finds the residents sharp as tacks. Built with drug money on the grounds of a convent, Coopers Chase is a high-end development conceived by loathsome Ian Ventham and maintained by dangerous crook Tony Curran, who's about to be fired and replaced with wary but willing Bogdan Jankowski. Ventham has big plans for the future—as soon as he's removed the nuns' bodies from the cemetery. When Curran is murdered, DCI Chris Hudson gets the case, but Elizabeth uses her influence to get the ambitious De Freitas included, giving the Thursday Club a police source. The Trades is an exciting, hilarious new half-hour comedy series set in a working-class town where the stress and high risks of working in a refinery are balanced by the comedic, high-wire and outrageous antics of its plant workers. The giant flare stack of the Conch Industries refinery burns over Imperial Valley, Nova Scotia, like a beacon of economy, ingenuity, and incendiary personalities. Here is where we find Todd Stool, proud pipe-fitter for Union 519, who for over 20 years has worked his way up from apprentice to (almost) site manager – a job that he fully expects to be his when current site manager, Bennett, falls into a drug induced coma in the pilot. But unfortunately for Todd, Conch corporate office sends Chelsea – an aspiring hotshot executive – to Imperial Valley to clean shop, and unbeknownst to everyone (including Chelsea), shut down its operations. The cast of hilarious tradespeople and refinery workers create a community of pranksters, laborers, friends and enemies. Enter Todd's sister, Audrey, who finds the motivation to leave her tedious life in retail for a career path in the trades. She applies to Imperial Valley as an apprentice carpenter, which stresses Todd out and disrupts the flow of his crew. It only gets more complicated when Audrey strikes up a special friendship with Chelsea, and tensions rise between the tradespeople and management. But what started out as rivalry between Todd and Chelsea slowly becomes common ground as Todd realizes he might be the only pipe-fitter in town who can stop an extinction event which threatens every citizen in Imperial Valley.

Mathieu arrives in Fort McMurray with his tools and the desire to make some money – the down payment to buy a house with Jessica, his girlfriend who stayed in Quebec. There, he is awaited by Craig, an exiled Quebec entrepreneur who puts him up at a high price with Steve and Dave, two other of his guys. Multiplying the hard days laying foundations, Mathieu gravitates closer and closer to the manna of the tar sands. A skillful worker, he becomes Craig's right-hand man, who promises him the possibility of being his partner. But just as money finally seems within reach, Mathieu is injured on a construction site and is forced to return to Quebec to convalesce. The reunion with Jessica is cut short. Worn out, obsessed with the West and its promises, Mathieu leaves there again, but Craig flees him and his colleagues have dispersed. In debt, without work or housing, everything changes for this man who thought he was free and sees his dream of success collapse.

In Uncharted 2: Amongst Thieves fortune hunter Nathan Drake embarks on a journey that will push him to his physical, emotional and intellectual limits to discover the real truth behind the lost fleet of Marco Polo and the legendary Himalayan valley of Shambhala, more commonly known in the west as Shangri-La. In 1292 Marco Polo departed the court of Kublai Khan in China with 14 ships filled with over 600 passengers and crew. Eighteen months later only one ship remained and 18 passengers survived. Marco Polo never revealed what happened to these lost ships. Embarking on a quest to find the lost fleet, fortune hunter Nathan Drake soon realizes Marco Polo was hiding a much bigger secret - he had gone on a secret expedition to find the mythical kingdom of Shambhala and to recover the legendary Cintamani Stone, the "Wish-fulfilling jewel" of Buddhist mythology. With this new information Drake settles on a new course, following Marco Polo's trail through a diverse range of exotic environments. This quest also pits him against a new, more formidable adversary - a ruthless, rogue paramilitary leader with a private army and a relentless ambition to recover the stone for himself.

Fifth grade was the worst year of Marc's life. He stunk at gym class, math was too hard for him, the school lunch was horrible, and his class field trip was ruined because he couldn't swim. But what was the most awful thing about fifth grade? Kenny Williamson, the class bully, who called himself the "King of the Jungle". When Marc's mother tells him that his uncle Jake is coming to stay for the whole summer, Marc can't wait. Uncle Jake is a for-real super-cool Navy SEAL. And Uncle Jake has a plan. He's going to turn Marc into a warrior. Becoming a warrior isn't easy. It means a lot of pull-ups, sit-ups, push-ups, squats, swimming, eating right, and studying harder than ever before! Can Marc transform himself into a warrior before school starts in the fall - and finally stand up to the King of the Jungle himself? (aka "YELLOWBELT")

Abby and Leila are your typical sixteen-year-old pot heads. When their exasperated parents run out of patience with them, they are sent to Tall Pines, a correctional school in rural Oregon run by an unregulated, murderous cult. Once there, they face an existential battle to retain their friendship, their sanity - and their lives. At the same time, Detective Dempsey (Martin), struggling with a troubled past of their own, moves to Tall Pines at the bequest of their wife, who grew up there and wishes to return home to raise their soon to be born child. But when Dempsey discovers the truth about Tall Pines, and their wife's deeper connections to the evils the town protects, they must work with our two potheads turned heroes to take it down from the inside. Facing a failed marriage and insurmountable debts, a struggling couple suddenly discovers millions of dollars' worth of gold hidden within their small-town home, inspiring them to hatch a scheme to sell the mysterious gold for money. Mick and Billie Royce live in an idyllic small town, populated by young professionals making a go of it in a once thriving tourist community. But their marriage is strained by money woes, and after Mick begins an affair with Billie's friend Taryn, the couple agrees to a divorce. On the evening of their separation, they discover a cache of gold hidden behind the walls of their small home. Blinded by the prospect of millions of dollars, Mick and Billie pause any discussion of divorce, realizing that secrecy is the best way to ensure the treasure isn't seized by an outside party. As they conspire to sell the gold bars on the black market, the thrill of running an illegal gambit begins to reinvigorate Mick and Billie's relationship. But they come to find that cleaning money is a dirty prospect and saving their marriage may be a lot easier than saving their lives. (August 22 - September 13, 2024 | aka "TENDER")

A crime-solving procedural with a comedic twist that follows the unlikely duo of a gruff, sardonic cop and a bubbly, clever con woman. Ellis, a demoted detective, has unfortunately spent the last year on Vancouver's marine unit (i.e., he's now a "water cop"), while Toni has been living a transient life elaborately scamming everyone she meets. But when Toni gets arrested and ends up helping Ellis solve a local crime, the two are offered the opportunity to redeem themselves, with Ellis going back to detective and Toni staying out of jail. The catch? They have to work together, with each using their unique skills to solve crimes. For Ellis, that means hard-boiled shoe leather police work; for Toni, it means accents, schemes, and generally befriending everyone in sight (while driving Ellis absolutely nuts). Against the backdrop of beautiful Vancouver — with all its unique, charming, and even contradictory neighborhoods and subcultures — the two will have to learn what it means to trust another person and maybe actually become partners.

The crime drama, revolves around Special Agent Will Trent of the Georgia Bureau of Investigations (GBI), who was abandoned at birth and endured a harsh coming-of-age in Atlanta's overwhelmed foster care system. But now, determined to use his unique point of view to make sure no one feels as abandoned as he was, Will Trent has the highest clearance rate in the GBI. Rodriguez's Will Trent is a gifted agent with the Georgia Bureau of Investigation. He is a loner within the law enforcement community and hides the severe dyslexia that went untreated during his traumatic childhood in foster care. But with the best clearance rate at the GBI, he could care less if people don't like him. (August 12 - March 20, 2024)

What can you say about Sherlock Holmes? But our Sherlock is not that Sherlock, not yet. He is not yet The Great Detective. This is an origin story, of how Sherlock Holmes becomes Sherlock Holmes. Our Sherlock is 19 years old. He is young, raw, unformed, unfiltered, from a hugely dysfunctional family, a broken young man trying to find his place in this world, trying to make sense of the chaos, trying to find control again after his family was ripped apart by the death of his young sister and his mother, driven mad with grief, was committed to an asylum.
