The story of humanity's first contact with an alien civilization. Set against the backdrop of China's Cultural Revolution, a secret military project sends signals into space to establish contact with aliens. An alien civilization on the brink of destruction captures the signal and plans to invade Earth. Meanwhile, on Earth, different camps start forming, planning to either welcome the superior beings and help them take over a world seen as corrupt, or to fight against the invasion. The result is a science fiction masterpiece of enormous scope and vision. (w/t "STRAIGHT SHOOTER")

The contemporary international heist thriller, will take place across three timelines — the 12 months prior to the heist, the 12 hours of the heist, and the 12 days after. A disgraced FBI agent (Mackie) and an American career criminal (Dornan) who play a zero-sum game of cat and mouse across Europe. At the center of it all is the daring, epic raid on a bank vault deep beneath the streets of Zurich.

John is a tough-guy action movie star from the 80s and 90s who at 77 years old has been now reduced to doing cheesy commercials as all the meaningful work is firmly in the rear view mirror. John's estranged son Alex is a dermatologist in the valley, looking for love and living his life from daydream to daydream, wherein he stars as the hero who saves the day and gets the girl. When John insists on an early Christmas family reunion with Deborah and Jane, Alex's mom and sister, Alex suspects that something is wrong. Will this trip back home cause an implosion and destroy their relationship forever, or can both men find the catharsis they need to fill that missing piece in their lives?

Accused is an anthology drama in which each stand-alone episode follows a different character as they make their way to court to hear whether they've been found guilty of a crime. It opens in a courtroom on the accused, with viewers knowing nothing about their crime or how they ended up on trial. Told from the defendant's point of view through flashbacks, Accused depicts how an ordinary person gets caught up in an extraordinary situation, ultimately revealing how one wrong turn leads to another, until it's too late to turn back. Adolescence tells the story of 13-year-old Jamie who commits a terrible crime. With the help of his dad Chris, psychologist Briony, and Detective Inspector Bascombe we delve into Jamie's troubled mind. The story revolves around Jamie who fatally stabs his classmate. In the aftermath he is arrested and denies the murder. Although there is seemingly video evidence of Jamie he maintains that he is innocent throughout. Jamie is not a popular kid in school and is bullied and labelled as an 'incel' online by his classmates. Jamie's behavior can be strange, making others feel uncomfortable in his presence. He speaks like someone far beyond his years, but in moments we can still see clear glimpses of a very young, scared and innocent child shining through. (May 2024 - August 2024)

Post her divorce, Amanda (Punch) has had to downsize and up sticks to South Harlesden, or as the Estate Agent calls it SoHa (definitely not the area around Wormwood Scrubs prison). With both Manus and Georgie now at secondary school, Amanda has to try and get her head around raising teenagers, dealing with modern motherhood horrors like teenage drinking, fake Instagram accounts and eco anxiety. Not even a woman as certain of her parenting as Amanda can deal with these nightmares alone. Then there's Amanda's mother Felicity (Lumley) who is constantly around, and completely in denial that she is, in fact, lonely. There is a slightly unhealthy co-dependent relationship based on backhanded compliments and veiled snipes about her new home. After a brief spell of freedom, Anne (Dunne) is sucked back into being Amanda's minion to help her navigate the social scene with the other parents at the children's new school. Thank God for Anne.

In a device driven world, American Sweatshop will take a look at the toll of social media through the eyes of Daisy Moriarty (Reinhart), who while dealing with a chaotic personal life, finds herself sucked into the underbelly of the internet. Moriarty, and a motley group of coworkers, toil in a cottage industry of agencies that evaluate harmful and offensive pictures and videos uploaded to social media. With detached caution and a deranged sense of humor, they examine the millions of posts that get "flagged for review." But one particularly violent video grabs hold of Daisy, luring her out of this office, away from the safety of her keyboard and into a dangerous world as she obsessively seeks to hold someone accountable.

The funeral of Charles Henry Topping on Manhattan's Upper East Side would have been a minor affair (his two-hundred-word obit in The New York Times notwithstanding) but for the presence of one particular mourner: the notoriously reclusive author A. N. Dyer, whose novel Ampersand stands as a classic of American teenage angst. But as Andrew Newbold Dyer delivers the eulogy for his oldest friend, he suffers a breakdown over the life he's led and the people he's hurt and the novel that will forever endure as his legacy. He must gather his three sons for the first time in many years—before it's too late. So begins a wild, transformative, heartbreaking week, as witnessed by Philip Topping, who, like his late father, finds himself caught up in the swirl of the Dyer family. First there's son Richard, a struggling screenwriter and father, returning from self-imposed exile in California. In the middle lingers Jamie, settled in Brooklyn after his twenty-year mission of making documentaries about human suffering. And last is Andy, the half brother whose mysterious birth tore the Dyers apart seventeen years ago, now in New York on spring break, determined to lose his virginity before returning to the prestigious New England boarding school that inspired Ampersand. But only when the real purpose of this reunion comes to light do these sons realize just how much is at stake, not only for their father but for themselves and three generations of their family.

When Max (Allen) and Mohammed (Latif), two unlikely friends – and even less likely heroes – become swept up in a cartel's plot to transport uranium across North Africa, they face a monumental decision: save themselves or risk everything to prevent a nuclear bomb getting into the wrong hands. Max, a free-spirited drug trafficker, is making runs through the Middle East. Meanwhile Mohammed, a man haunted by his past and on the run from those determined to kill him, is hiding out in the deserts of North Africa, unable to return home to the UK. Desperate for redemption, their paths converge in the Libyan desert as they are swept up in a nefarious Venezuelan cartel's plot to transport uranium capable of fueling a nuclear bomb. With the fate of humanity in their backpacks, they grapple with a desperate choice: save themselves or save humanity? Pursued by Cassie Elliott (Wiley) – a highly skilled CIA agent whose life mission is to prevent terrorists from acquiring a nuclear bomb – along with MI6 and a network of traffickers, Max and Mohammed find themselves in the absurd situation of, for once, having to be the good guys. Elise Jacobs is ready for a change. A new beginning. Recently divorced, she relocates to her hometown of Landover, Maine to operate a bed and breakfast she inherited from her grandmother. After growing up with the fondest memories of her childhood being spent there, she relishes the chance for a fresh start and an opportunity to revive the inn. As summer gives way to Autumn, the inn is returning to its grandeur. A handsome guest sets out to challenge Elise at every turn. She knows the wealthy narcissistic type...or does she? Luke Donovan is ready to trade banking for bon appetit with hopes of opening a bistro in a charming town he spent summers fishing with his dad and grandfather. Finding an obstinate innkeeper consuming his thoughts is more than he'd planned for a brief stay at the most idyllic home tucked within the rolling hills of an orchard.

The Bosch spinoff, follows Detective Renée Ballard (Q), who is tasked with running the LAPD's new cold case division—a poorly funded, all-volunteer unit with the largest case load in the city. Ballard approaches these frozen-in-time cases with empathy and determination. When she uncovers a larger conspiracy during her investigations, she'll lean on the assistance of her retired ally, Harry Bosch (Titus Welliver), to navigate the dangers that threaten both her unit and her life. When a prominent Manhattan lawyer is murdered, two estranged sisters - one the dead man's widow, the other his ex - must set aside mistrust and old resentments...but can they escape their past? Though Chloe (Biel) was the younger of the two Taylor sisters, she always seemed to be in charge. She was the honor-roll student with big dreams and an even bigger work ethic. Nicky (Banks) was always restless...and more than a little reckless - the opposite of her ambitious little sister. She floated from job to job and man to man and stayed close to home in Cleveland. For a while, it seemed like both sisters had found happiness. Chloe earned a scholarship to an Ivy League school and moved to New York City, where she landed a coveted publishing job. Nicky married promising young attorney Adam Macintosh and gave birth to a baby boy they named Ethan. The Taylor sisters became virtual strangers. Now, more than 15 years later, their lives are drastically different - and Chloe is married to Adam. When he's murdered by an intruder at the couple's East Hampton beach house, Chloe reluctantly allows her teenaged stepson's biological mother - her estranged sister, Nicky - back into her life. But when the police begin to treat Ethan as a suspect in his father's death, the two sisters are forced to unite...and to confront the truth behind family secrets they have tried to bury in the past. The second series, which culminated tonight, saw Humphrey and Martha very nearly tie the knot, while their fostering journey came to a heartwarming conclusion as they welcomed Ryan into their home. Esther took on a case which saw the Shipton Abbott Museum robbed of its prized possession, and Kelby and CS Charlie Wood's professional relationship took an unexpected turn...Across the series the Shipton Abbott police team continued to crack a host of mind-boggling and mysterious puzzles - including a death during a murder-mystery play on a steam train, a local fishing legend going missing at sea, a medium predicting an arson attack and many more - to ensure the station house remains open for the foreseeable future.

The original movie starred Ethan Hawke, as a child abductor and murderer called the Grabber, and Mason Thames, a 13-year-old boy named Finney who crosses the killer's path. The Grabber locks Finney in a soundproof basement, where nobody can hear him or come to his rescue. The only item in the basement is a disconnected telephone that begins ringing. When Finney answers it, he realizes he's able to communicate with the spirits of the Grabber's deceased victims. The kids' ghosts teach Finney how to survive and fight back, and he's able to escape the Grabber's clutches in the end. (Release Date: October 17, 2025)

A spy series set in 1950s Las Vegas. Louise Grant was a secretary to O.S.S. agent Mark Mason, who ran a private detective agency. Enamored with her boss and wanting to help him break cases, she surreptitiously donned a floor-length red evening gown, black domino mask, and high heels, and ventured out at night fighting crime as the costumed crime-fighter the Blonde Phantom. Mark developed a romantic interest in the Blonde Phantom, but continued to not notice Louise, apparently oblivious to the fact that they were both the same woman. Blue Balls follows Emma, who, back at home in her small town, wants nothing more than a night of driving around and hanging out with her best friend, Mara. But when they meet Tom and Jack, Mara invites these two strangers back to their place to get to know each other better. The only problem is that Emma is a virgin as is Tom. But Tom's not a sexual virgin, he's a vampire who's never killed before and he's hoping tonight will be the night for him to join a centuries-old vampire fraternity. As the two humans fight for their lives with every weapon they can find, this horror show turns into a comedic blood battle for their freedom.

In this darker reimagining of the classic Robin Hood tale, the titular character, now a battle-worn loner, grapples with his violent past. Gravely injured, Robin is taken in by Sister Brigid, a mysterious healer who offers him a chance at redemption. Meanwhile, a young girl disguised as a boy encounters a hermit who kills her when she tries to attack him. The hermit's old friend, Edward, seeks his help to reclaim his stolen farm. Together, they brutally eliminate the family occupying it, but Edward loses his wife in the battle. When the local warlord learns of Robin's presence, he attacks, leading to a fierce confrontation. Near death, Robin is taken to Sister Brigid's island for healing.

Set in Wales, Death Valley follows the unlikely crime-solving partnership between eccentric national treasure John Chapel (Spall), a retired actor and star of hit fictional detective TV show 'Caesar', and Welsh detective sergeant Janie Mallowan (Keyworth). Thrown together by the murder of John's neighbor, John and Janie are an odd, yet hilarious duo with opposing instincts. Every week, they get to the bottom of gripping murders, with various stunning Welsh locations providing a backdrop to their investigations. When John and Janie are not arguing about a case, they're inevitably up in each other's personal business. Despite their differences, they soon realize they are the closest thing each other has to a best friend, and unwittingly help one another move on from the past.

In the dead of night, part-time Deputy Toby Sawyer (Nicholson), is jolted awake by Chief Krueger (Macy) to guard a dead body until the coroner arrives. An hour later, the corpse mysteriously vanishes. Though an unlikely hero, Toby's frantic search to find the body exposes decades of wrongdoing, a truck full of immigrants, a freezer stuffed with cash, vengeful siblings, and several cops who have turned a blind eye, including Deputy Billy Banks (Dorff) who pressures Toby to ignore his findings. Only Deputy Amanda Jackson (Haddish) appears trustworthy. Desperate to keep his job and provide for his family, Toby must unravel the town's deep corruption before his career - and himself - end up as dead as the missing victim.

Having had her state benefits cut to shreds after being made redundant, a young woman with very little left to lose begins to build an illegal drugs empire. But Emily (Jones) isn't your average street-dealing dope peddler – she's sharp, funny, biting, highly educated – and on top of all that, she has cerebral palsy. People have underestimated Emily her entire life. If they're not patronizing her for completing the most menial of tasks, they're pretending she's not there. What better disguise could there be for criminal activity than to be entirely written off by the same broken system which exists to protect the law?

The story begins with a disastrous dinner party where Sarah Tucker (Wilson) endures her husband's client's offensive remarks. The evening takes a dramatic turn when an explosion rocks their South Oxford neighborhood, leaving a woman dead, her daughter missing, and a mysterious man in the rubble. Seizing an opportunity to escape her controlling husband, Sarah vows to find the missing girl and uncover the truth. Private detective Zoe Boehm (Thompson), coping with her husband's murder, crosses paths with Sarah, who had hired Zoe's husband to investigate the missing girl. As rogue assassins target Sarah, she teams up with a presumed-dead man to find the girl. In a thrilling climax, Zoe and Sarah's stories converge, leading to personal revelations and a fight for justice. The series blends sharp wit and style, subverting the classic detective genre with two strong, unpredictable female leads, navigating from mundane suburbia to high-stakes government intrigue, exploring themes of personal awakening and activism. Set in a near future Margate, against a backdrop of soaring inequality, The Dream Lands tells the story of Chance, a young woman who discovers life and love, while being forced to fight for her family's survival in a world that's crumbling around her. It's 2039 and temperatures are soaring, seas are rising, and the political climate is equally as menacing. Chance is living a life of crime just to get by, when her community is singled out for a government rejuvenation scheme, promising to bring her coastal town back to life. But when Chance falls in love with Franky, a girl with ties to the establishment, she and those closest to her begin to realize that all may not be as it seems. The Dream Lands is a thrilling voyage of romantic awakening and self-discovery, a defiant community fighting back. Part conspiracy thriller and part relationship drama, the story blazes with the enduring power of love and hope, in a world spinning out of control.

Drops of God finds the world of gastronomy and fine wines in mourning as Alexandre Léger, creator of the famous Léger Wine Guide and emblematic figure in oenology, has just passed away at his home in Tokyo at the age of 60. He left behind a daughter, Camille, who lives in Paris and hasn't seen her father since her parents separated when she was nine years old. When Camille flies to Tokyo and Léger's will is read, she discovers that her father has left her an extraordinary wine collection – the greatest collection in the world according to the experts. But, to claim the inheritance, Camille must compete with a brilliant young oenologist, Issei Tomine, who her father took under his wing and is referred to in Léger's will as his "spiritual son." But is his connection to Issei only spiritual? In Season 2, Camille and Issei again face a nearly impossible challenge: to uncover the origin of the world's most wonderful wine, a secret that even Alexandre Léger failed to unlock.

A fast-paced drama about the inner workings of the New York office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. This elite unit brings to bear all their talents, intellect and technical expertise on major cases in order to keep New York and the country safe. Born into a multigenerational law enforcement family, Special Agent Maggie Bell commits deeply to the people she works with as well as those she protects. Her partner is Special Agent Omar Adom "OA" Zidan, a West Point graduate via Bushwick who spent two years undercover for the DEA before being cherry-picked by the FBI. Overseeing them is Special Agent in Charge, Isobel Castille, who operates under intense pressure and has undeniable command authority. The team also includes Assistant Special Agent in Charge Jubal Valentine, the nerve center of the office whose ability to easily relate to and engage with both superiors and subordinates makes him a master motivator. Kristen Chazal is the team's most valued resource, a brilliant analyst recruited straight out of university who can piece together the big picture faster than anyone. These first-class agents tenaciously investigate cases of tremendous magnitude, including terrorism, organized crime and counterintelligence. (Three season renewal.)

Elsie Porter (Qualley) is an average twenty-something and yet what happens to her is anything but ordinary. On a rainy New Year's Day, she heads out to pick up a pizza for one. She isn't expecting to see anyone else in the shop, much less the adorable and charming Ben Ross. Their chemistry is instant and electric. Ben cannot even wait twenty-four hours before asking to see her again. Within weeks, the two are head over heels in love. By May, they've eloped. Only nine days later, Ben is out riding his bike when he is hit by a truck and killed on impact. Elsie hears the sirens outside her apartment, but by the time she gets downstairs, he has already been whisked off to the emergency room. At the hospital, she must face Susan (Dern), the mother-in-law she has never met—and who doesn't even know Elsie exists. Interweaving Elsie and Ben's charmed romance with Elsie and Susan's healing process, Forever, Interrupted will remind you that there's more than one way to find a happy ending.

1999. Juan Pablo, a skilled goldsmith, embarks on a journey to New York where he will exhibit some of his latest works. Before leaving, a visit to his hometown triggers memories from 25 years earlier: He is plunged into a flashback that will take him back to the summer when he met the woman who would mark him for life: Celia, a forty-year-old seamstress. The age difference between the two turned their love story into a pre-announced failure. Determined to alter their fate, Juan Pablo endeavors to rewrite their story, making a solemn promise to Celia before his return to 1999. However, upon his arrival, Celia is nowhere to be found. Can their love transcend the confines of time, or is it destined to be lost forever?

Imagines the story of Agnes – the wife of the world's most famous writer William Shakespeare – as she struggles to come to terms with the loss of her only son, Hamnet. The story charts the emotional, familial and artistic consequences of that loss, bringing to life a human and heart-stopping story as the backdrop to the creation of Shakespeare's most famous play, Hamlet. In 1580s England, during the Black Plague, a young Latin tutor falls in love with an extraordinary, eccentric young woman. Agnes is a wild creature who walks her family's land with a falcon on her glove and is known throughout the countryside for her unusual gifts as a healer, understanding plants and potions better than she does people. Once she settles with her husband on Henley Street in Stratford-upon-Avon, she becomes a fiercely protective mother and a steadfast, centrifugal force in the life of her young husband, whose career on the London stage is taking off when his beloved young son succumbs to sudden fever. Noah, Minnie, and Fizz are three young people who meet on the streets of Bristol. They're there because the streets offer refuge from the difficulties of family life. They can't escape the reasons for being there, but they can find comfort in each other and a shared search for a place to call “home”. Rhythm, rhyme, music, and movement fuel the story, arising naturally out of the action, reflecting the music of the three generations in the story.

The story of the murder of the Clutter family, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Clutter and their two teenage children, Kenyon and Nancy (two older daughters were grown and out of the house), and the events that lead the killers to murder. The family was living in Holcomb, Kansas, and in November 1959, they were brutally killed, with no apparent motive, by Dick Hickock and Perry Smith. The family was discovered bound and shot to death, with only small items missing from the home. Truman Capote read about the crime in The New York Times soon after it happened, and before the killers were caught, he began his work in Kansas, interviewing the people of Holcomb and doing extensive research with the help of his friend Harper Lee, who would go on to write the classic To Kill a Mockingbird. Perry and Dick initially get away with the murder, leaving behind scant clues and having no personal connection with the murdered family. Capote explores the motive again and again within his text, eventually concluding that any real motive for the crime lays within Perry — his feelings of inadequacy, his ambiguous sexuality, and his anger at the world and at his family because of his bad childhood. Dick plays the role of true outlaw, but the impact of the killings weighs heavily on him, and his own role in the murders remains unexplained and unclear.

Set in the proverbial boomtowns of West Texas, Landman is a modern day tale of fortune seeking in the world of oil rigs. The series is an upstairs/downstairs story of roughnecks and wildcat billionaires fueling a boom so big, it's reshaping our climate, our economy and our geopolitics. Tommy Norris (Thornton) works for an oil company in Texas, and that means he spends his days negotiating with folks, most of them greedy as hell. In control of a moving river of money, Tommy points the cash nozzle wherever it needs to be pointed - in order to keep a moving river of oil in constant motion, up and out of the ground. A man with a truck and a cellphone and a complicated family life, Tommy himself is in constant motion, fueled by coffee and talk and trouble -- lots of coffee, lots of talk, lots of trouble. Based on a true story, set in the contemporary Amazon, a race against the clock as Brazilian ranchers hunt the last indigenous Indian of an undiscovered tribe. Hawke is set to play William Phelan — a washed-out Chicago cop turned corporate gun-for-hire — who finds himself in a wildly unfamiliar landscape, his assignment the murder of the last surviving member of an uncontacted Indigenous tribe. A broken man standing at an unlikely crossroads, Phelan is given the chance to save a life and reclaim his soul.

Life in the idyllic town of Marlow has just about returned to normal after the triple murder that rocked the community. But it's not long before retired archaeologist Judith Potts (Samantha Bond), Vicar's wife, Becks Starling (Cara Horgan), and dog-walker, Suzie Harris (Jo Martin) are called back into action, when a series of new unsettling crimes befall the local residents. From a seemingly impossible murder inside the locked study of a sweeping mansion, to the mysterious case of a man murdered in the middle of a sleepy cul-de-sac with no connection to the town, and an unexpectedly brutal accident at the prestigious Marlow sailing club that quickly reveals itself to be something more sinister, there's no rest for our sleuthing trio. Navigating the delicate balance of Marlow society – from local aristocracy to the workers at the local boatyard, the pubs and cafes of the high street to a newly established archaeological dig – Judith, Becks and Suzie dig into all corners of Marlow life as they assist DCI Tanika Malik (Natalie Dew) in her official investigations.

Ischia, 1955. In the waters of the island in the bay of Naples, Marco (16) spends his days sailing with Nicola (52), a hardened fisherman who tells stories about the sea and the war, that is still very fresh in his memory. Shy and curious, Marco takes advantage of his holidays on the Italian island to fill his eyes with the images of a world that is so distant from his native London. On vacation with his parents at his maternal uncle's house, he will live a summer that will change him forever after meeting, within the group of friends of his older cousin Daniele (21), the enigmatic Caia (20), with whom he will fall in love immediately and for the very first time. A beautiful complicity is established between the two in which Caia reveals her painful past, with a childhood stolen by the SS and a father who preferred to throw his daughter out of a train in Yugoslavia, rather having her to experience the horrors of a concentration camp. The stories of Nicola and Caia, meanwhile, will awaken in Marco an uncontrollable resentment for the SS, personified in a group of rude German tourists who tour the island, and through whom Marco will try to avenge Caia's pain.

The Morning Show explores the cutthroat world of morning news and the lives of the people who help America wake up in the morning. Told through the lens of two complicated women working to navigate the minefield of high-octane jobs while facing crises in both their personal and professional lives, The Morning Show looks at the power dynamics between women and men, and women and women, in the workplace. Picking up after the events of season one, season two found The Morning Show team emerging from the wreckage of Aniston's Alex and Witherspoon's Bradley's actions, to a new UBA and a world in flux, where identity is everything and the chasm between who we present as and who we really are comes into play.

Jackie does not like surprises. Chaos is the enemy! The best way to get her successful, busy parents to notice her is to be perfect. The perfect look, the perfect grades - the perfect daughter. And then... Surprise number one: Jackie's family dies in a freak car accident. Surprise number two: Jackie has to move cross-country to live with the Walters - her new guardians. Surprise number three: The Walters have 12 sons. (Well, 11, but Parker acts like a boy anyway.) Now Jackie must trade in her Type A personality and New York City apartment for a Colorado ranch and all the wild Walter boys who come with it. Jackie is surrounded by the enemy - loud, dirty, annoying boys who have no concept of personal space. Okay, several of the oldest guys are flat-out gorgeous. But still annoying. She's not stuck-up or boring - no matter what they say - but proving it is another matter. How can she fit in and move on when she needs to keep her parents' memory alive by living up to the promise of perfect? (July 22 - December 3, 2024)

Neuromancer, takes place in the near future in a cyberpunk setting. Cyberpunk is a genre that focuses on future societies where technology has advanced, but crime and corruption have as well. Common features include globe-spanning mega-corporations, cybernetically enhanced mercenaries, and the importance of technology as a tool for crime. The story follows the experiences of Case (Turner), an out-of-work hacker who is contacted by a mysterious new employer called Armitage. Along with Molly, a mercenary cyborg, and a thief/illusionist named Peter Riviera, Case participates in a series of data thefts for their employer. Their first job has them stealing an electronic copy of the mind of McCoy Pauley, a brilliant hacker who taught Case a great deal of what he knows. They steal this electronic mind to help them in performing their next job. After that, the group must head to Freeside, an enormous space habitat in orbit around Earth. Freeside serves as a luxury resort and casino for the wealthy, and it is also the location of Villa Straylight, the home of the incredibly wealthy and powerful Tessier-Ashpool family. The group's second job is to break into the Villa Straylight and hack into Wintermute, a powerful artificial intelligence created by the Tessier-Ashpool family. In the end, it turns out that Wintermute itself was behind the whole scheme. Government regulations put careful restrictions on artificial intelligences to prevent them from getting out of hand, and Wintermute was using Armitage and his team to break those restrictions. This allows Wintermute to merge with another A.I. called Neuromancer, becoming a new, more powerful electronic being. (September 30 – May 12, 2025)

Set in an era when glass ceilings were made of concrete, Bennett will play Katharine Hilbery — one woman who insisted on reaching for the stars. Based on what has been called Virginia Woolf's funniest novel, Night and Day is described as an “unromantic comedy” about a passionate astronomer who does everything she can to avoid romantic love and marriage. Contemporary in tone, the story of Katharine's bold challenge to the Edwardian patriarchy is set against the backdrop of the suffragette movement and advances in science and technology, at the turn of the 20th century.

A young mother unsatisfied with her seemingly perfect suburban life begins a torrid, erotic affair with the monster in her son's closet — a sexy, doesn't-give-a-fuck boogeyman called the Nightbeast. Every night, Amy escapes into a dream-logic realm beyond the closet door where she can live, party, and fuck the way she used to... without responsibility or repercussion. But Amy soon learns that there's no such thing as a harmless affair, even with an imaginary creature, as her two worlds increasingly begin to collide — with unexpected consequences for her family.

On Earth-90214 in the heart of New York City during the 1930s, Peter B. Parker loses his Uncle Ben to the Goblin and his carnie cronies. He then dedicates his time helping others at the houseless shelter that his Aunt May runs. While attending a rally where his Aunt May speaks out against the corrupt system that runs their city, Peter's passion for justice catches the eye of Ben Urich, a photographer at The Daily Bugle. When Goblin's Enforcers attack May and Peter, Ben defends the pair, and ultimately takes Peter under his wing at the Bugle. Peter confides in Ben about finding his uncle Ben killed and torn apart with rope marks on his body. He blames the Goblin's cronies and seeks to bring them to justice. When Peter discovers Ben is a heroin addict, drugged and unable to answer his phone, he gets a tip meant for the "Spider" that leads him to Goblin's goons at the Rooney Imports Warehouse on the pier. It's here that they're picking up a shipment of antiques previously headed to the Metropolitan Museum, and in dropping one of the containers, a bunch of spiders are let loose. One of them bites Peter and tells him a bite brings death to those of evil intent, but will bestow the curse of power on him instead. Peter receives arachnid-like abilities from the bite and becomes the Spider-Man.

1936: Dmitri Shostakovich (Diehl), just thirty years old, reckons with the first of three conversations with power that will irrevocably shape his life. Stalin, hitherto a distant figure, has suddenly denounced the young composer's latest opera. Certain he will be exiled to Siberia (or, more likely, shot dead on the spot), Shostakovich reflects on his predicament, his personal history, his parents, his daughter—all of those hanging in the balance of his fate. And though a stroke of luck prevents him from becoming yet another casualty of the Great Terror, he will twice more be swept up by the forces of despotism: coerced into praising the Soviet state at a cultural conference in New York in 1948, and finally bullied into joining the Party in 1960. All the while, he is compelled to constantly weigh the specter of power against the integrity of his music. Riseborough will play Nita, Shostakovich's wife and intellectual equal.

Inti Flynn (Olsen) arrives in Scotland with her twin sister, Aggie, to lead a team of biologists tasked with reintroducing fourteen gray wolves into the remote Highlands. She hopes to heal not only the dying landscape, but Aggie, too, unmade by the terrible secrets that drove the sisters out of Alaska. Inti is not the woman she once was, either, changed by the harm she’s witnessed—inflicted by humans on both the wild and each other. Yet as the wolves surprise everyone by thriving, Inti begins to let her guard down, even opening herself up to the possibility of love. But when a farmer is found dead, Inti knows where the town will lay blame. Unable to accept her wolves could be responsible, Inti makes a reckless decision to protect them. But if the wolves didn’t make the kill, then who did? And what will Inti do when the man she is falling for seems to be the prime suspect?

At 10:20pm, on a foggy December 25th in 1951, a bomb exploded under their small shotgun style home on the outskirts of Mims, Florida – directly under their bedroom. It was both Christmas day, and Harry and Harriette’s 25th wedding anniversary. Harry T. Moore died on his way to the hospital in Sanford, FL in a car being driven by his brother-in-law George Simms. Harriet’s death came 9 days later, just after saying final goodbyes to her husband at the mortuary. The story of the Moores is one that is equal parts civil rights history, and a personal tale of love, commitment and family. Sadly, it is a story that has for decades receded into dim memory. And yet the voices of these two pioneering leaders in the early struggle for civil rights call out through the decades not to be forgotten.

An emotional thriller of revenge and redemption, which follows the journey of Brennan, a deaf man determined to right his wrongs, while unravelling the truth behind the events that led him to prison. Reunion features Brennan, who embodies the struggle of a man caught between two worlds, unable to fully integrate into the hearing world and shunned by the deaf community. Amidst this isolation, Brennan's only meaningful relationship is with his estranged daughter Ellen, who he hasn't seen in over a decade while he's been in prison. (Mid-May 2024 - August 2024)

In the claustrophobic confines of a rural estate, a family struggles with their tangled web of hereditary diseases. Among them is Alessandro, a young man with epilepsy and paranoid tendencies. Feeling burdened by the numerous afflictions that plague his family, he decides to relieve his only healthy brother, Augusto, from the weight of their shared responsibilities. However, Alessandro's obsessive project takes a dark turn when a series of dreadful accidents and murders is set into motion. The chilling sequence begins with the intentional act of pushing their blind, religious mother into a ravine. This sinister act is followed by the elimination of Leone, the intellectually disabled brother. Throughout this macabre scheme, Alessandro grapples with his own desires, including an unsettling inclination towards incestuous impulses with his sister, Giulia. Meanwhile, Giulia clumsily attempts to thwart Augusto's plans of leaving the family by sabotaging his relationship with Lucia, whom he loves deeply. As the family dynamics intensify, the question arises: Will Alessandro be able to bring his obsessive project to completion? Will he succeed in freeing himself and Augusto from their mother's demands and familial obligations, allowing them to pursue a new life together in the city? Or will unforeseen obstacles stand in the way, challenging Alessandro's twisted ambitions and disturbing plans?

Sentimental Value will follow Nora (Reinsve), an actor, and her sister Agnes, who are grieving the loss of their mother while their father Gustav reappears in their lives after a long absence. Gustav, a once-celebrated filmmaker, has written a script for a comeback movie and offered the main part to his daughter Nora, but she categorically refuses the role. During a career retrospective in France, Gustav meets an adoring Hollywood star and offers her the part intended for Nora. When the film starts shooting back home in Norway, Gustav seizes the opportunity to repair his bond with Nora and her sister.

Shōgun’s original installment is set in Japan in the year 1600 at the dawn of a century-defining civil war. Lord Yoshii Toranaga is fighting for his life as his enemies on the Council of Regents unite against him. When a mysterious European ship is found marooned in a nearby fishing village, its English pilot, John Blackthorne (Cosmo Jarvis), comes bearing secrets that could help Toranaga tip the scales of power and devastate the formidable influence of Blackthorne’s own enemies — the Jesuit priests and Portuguese merchants. Toranaga’s and Blackthorne’s fates become inextricably tied to their translator, Toda Mariko (Anna Sawai), a mysterious Christian noblewoman and the last of a disgraced line. While serving her lord amidst this fraught political landscape, Mariko must reconcile her newfound companionship with Blackthorne, her commitment to the faith that saved her and her duty to her late father. Neal Maven returns to Boston from his tour in Iraq only to discover that the country he vowed to protect has little use for him now. Armed with a highly specialized set of skills he can't use and bitter toward the rest of his generation -- the men and women who remained stateside, and are therefore years ahead of him both personally and professionally -- Maven fears he is near his breaking point. And then he meets Brad Royce. Royce is everything Maven wants to be: a fellow vet, charismatic and confident, principled, wealthy, and with a beautiful woman on his arm. Not just any beautiful woman, but Danielle Vetti -- the most stunning girl from Maven's high school. Literally the girl of his dreams. Royce offers Maven a much-needed job, and Maven soon finds himself a part of Royce's team of "sugar bandits," a group of fellow veterans who use their military skills to intercept major drug deals, taking the dirty money while destroying the product -- a get-rich scheme with a clear moral imperative. Though exceedingly dangerous and certainly illegal, the efforts of these modern-day Robin Hoods provide Maven with the adrenaline charge he's craved since his decommission. Besides, Maven can't resist the chance to be in Danielle's orbit once again. Suddenly, Maven's life is better than he ever thought possible: a soldier in a civilian's world, he is once again able to do something he excels at, and rediscovers the camaraderie he's sorely lacked since his return. He can get into any club, eat at any restaurant, be with any woman he wants -- except, of course, his dream girl. It's almost too good to be true.

The Thursday Murder Club started out with a group of septuagenarians working on old murder cases culled from the files of club founder Elizabeth Best's friend Penny Gray, a former police officer who's now comatose in the village's nursing home. Elizabeth used to have an unspecified job, possibly as a spy, that has left her with a large network of helpful sources. Joyce Meadowcroft is a former nurse who chronicles their deeds. Psychiatrist Ibrahim Arif and well-known political firebrand Ron Ritchie complete the group. They charm Police Constable Donna De Freitas, who, visiting to give a talk on safety at Coopers Chase, finds the residents sharp as tacks. Built with drug money on the grounds of a convent, Coopers Chase is a high-end development conceived by loathsome Ian Ventham and maintained by dangerous crook Tony Curran, who's about to be fired and replaced with wary but willing Bogdan Jankowski. Ventham has big plans for the future—as soon as he's removed the nuns' bodies from the cemetery. When Curran is murdered, DCI Chris Hudson gets the case, but Elizabeth uses her influence to get the ambitious De Freitas included, giving the Thursday Club a police source. When Cheryl “No Mercy” Stewart, a two-time former boxing champion and recovering alcoholic attempts to reconnect with the 19-year-old son she abandoned, she is met with a wall of resentment. The only thing stopping Keith Stewart, a street hustler and promising young fighter, from a world boxing title is his bad attitude. When he suffers an unnecessary loss because of his gambling-addicted trainer, he's forced to turn to the only person who has what it takes to get him to the top— his mother. Determined to right past wrongs and reclaim her glory, Cheryl trains her estranged son. Despite her struggles of addiction, and the threat of Child Protective Services taking her 7-year-old daughter away, Cheryl attempts to make boxing history and do what no other mother has ever done – train her son to a world championship title. About the family behind the Leica camera brand, who helped many Jewish people escape Germany during World War II. Leica was founded by Ernst Leitz in 1869 as a manufacturer of microscopic lenses, but in the 1930s Ernst Leitz II took the risk of mass producing the first 35mm compact camera, an invention that optical engineer Oskar Barnack had worked on for over two decades. As well as Ernst Leitz II, the film will center on his daughter Elsie Kuehn-Leitz, who was imprisoned by the Gestapo for trying to prevent a Jewish woman's deportation to a concentration camp. Elsie experienced extreme starvation and psychological torture at the hands of the Nazis but due to her father's company's rise to international fame it ultimately enabled her and many Jewish people to survive.

In his 40s, Aaron Tealey (McGraw) is an honest-to-God Texas hero, a cocksure rodeo star who wears a championship belt buckle for bull riding — but his body is a mess, a partly-mended sack of broken bones that threatens to go ragdoll every time he rides — a bull, a golf cart, anything. Gloria Soto is a teenage girl who could take away Aaron's belt buckle and his legend — one of these days, with proper mentoring, if she doesn't get herself killed. Naomi Soto, Gloria's mother, wants her daughter to stick to algebra and chemistry and stay far away from the rodeo ring (it should be called The Fool Killer). Two questions will be answered soon: 1. Which way will Gloria jump? 2. How hard will Aaron land?

SHAKESPEARE SISTERS Lgf 18 Doughty Street, London, England, WC1N 2PL production@shakespeare-sisters.com

Set in 2015 in a hot summer in Takoma Park, Maryland: Molly and Cassie are 17-year-old fraternal twins, raised by two gay mothers, Patty and Nadine. Cassie is the flirty, fearless twin - a total player, while Molly is the expert on unrequited love, having lived through it 26 times. Molly crushes hard and often, but always in secret. Because no matter how many times Cassie tells her to "woman up", she's sure love confessions can only go one way for fat girls: utter humiliation. Though complete opposites, Molly and Cassie have always been inseparable. Their tight knit family couldn't be more excited when the Supreme Court rules on marriage equality for same-sex couples. In celebration, Nadine and Patty decide to get married. While their Moms are caught up in wedding planning, Cassie falls head over heels for her first real girlfriend, Mina and barely remembers anyone else exists. With her sister M.I.A., suddenly Molly has never felt more alone and it could be time for drastic measures. Mina introduces Molly to her bandmate Will - funny and flirtatious, he just might be perfect crush material. If Molly can win him over, she'll get her first kiss and find a place in Cassie's new world. There's only one problem: Molly's coworker Reid. He's an awkward Tolkien super-fan with a season pass to the Ren Faire, and there's absolutely no way Molly could fall for him, right?

A year after the death of his friend and partner Sherlock Holmes at the hands of Moriarty, Dr. John Watson resumes his medical career as the head of a clinic dedicated to treating rare disorders. Watson's old life isn't done with him, though—Moriarty and Watson are set to write their own chapter of a story that has fascinated audiences for more than a century. Watson is a medical show with a strong investigative spine, featuring a modern version of one of history's greatest detectives as he turns his attention from solving crimes to addressing the greatest mystery of all: illness, and the ways it disrupts our lives. Rennie is an 11-year old girl who loves two things more than anything: skateboarding and kittens. Our story begins as she goes through her daily routine after school, skating with her cool friends, and being patient with local nerd, Malcolm, who makes fake videos of him doing skater tricks to impress her. To save up to adopt a kitten, Rennie does odd-jobs for people in the neighborhood, Even cranky old Mrs. Jenkins who never pays her a dime. She lives with a single dad, and helps take care of her five-year old sister. When Rennie has saved up enough, they go to a local adoption shelter. But once there Rennie learns there aren't any kittens -- there's a waiting list for them. But this doesn't make any sense when she sees the rows and rows of adult cats with no homes... She soon learns the shelter is losing its funding. No one knows what will happen to all the cats...So she gathers her skater friends together with a mission to get the cats adopted before the shelter closes. After some unsuccessful tries, Rennie gets an idea how to convince people all these cats are special: make them superstars on the internet. With the help of Catalina, who runs the shelter, they turn an unused room into a special effects studio and make the silliest, craziest cat videos, ever. And it starts to work! People love the videos and come to adopt the cats! But there are too many cats and not enough time. Trying her best to save them, Rennie misses picking up her little sister after school, causing a near calamity and she's grounded. But Malcolm and the gang step in, and all but one of the cats get homes. Unexpectedly, Rennie learns Mrs. Jenkins has passed away. But they learn she changed her will and donated everything to the shelter, so it can stay open. There's still one old cat left. He's kinda cranky, but kinda cute...and guess who Rennie goes home with? (July 29 - August 16, 2024)

Lucy is the wife of a Chinese human rights lawyer who dedicates his life to fighting for justice for farmers, workers, and religious people. Based on true stories of Chinese human rights lawyers and their families, this film showcases the incredible bravery and resilience of those who risk everything to fight for justice and freedom. Despite the danger, Lucy supports her husband's work, but when he is kidnapped by Chinese national security, Lucy's world is turned upside down. Tragically, she loses her unborn baby during the chaos of the arrest. Lucy's husband is repeatedly arrested and kidnapped by the Chinese national security, especially after he writes three open letters to the head of the Chinese government. Unable to bear the suffering any longer, Lucy flees to Canada, but she never gives up hope of finding her husband, who has been hidden by the Chinese government and lost contact with her and their family. In Canada, Lucy builds connections with other wives of human rights lawyers and gradually grows stronger with their support. She learns about the power of herself and begins to fight for her own rights and her husband's.

Known as the “Wizard of the Kremlin,” the enigmatic Vadim Baranov was a TV producer before becoming a political advisor to Putin, aka “The Czar.”

After his resignation from this position, legends about him multiply, with no one able to distinguish truth from fiction.

He immerses us in the heart of the Russian state, where sycophants and oligarchs have been engaging in open warfare, and where Vadim, now the regime’s main spin doctor, turns an entire country into an avant-garde political stage. Yet Vadim is not as ambitious as the others. Entangled in the increasingly dark secrets of the regime he has helped create, he will do anything to get out, guided by the memory of his grandfather, an eccentric aristocrat who survived the Revolution, and the mesmerizing, merciless Ksenia, whom he has fallen in love with.

In this tightly wound, enthralling story reminiscent of Agatha Christie’s works, Lo Blacklock, a journalist who writes for a travel magazine, has just been given the assignment of a lifetime: a week on a luxury cruise with only a handful of cabins. The sky is clear, the waters calm, and the veneered, select guests jovial as the exclusive cruise ship, the Aurora, begins her voyage in the picturesque North Sea. At first, Lo’s stay is nothing but pleasant: the cabins are plush, the dinner parties are sparkling, and the guests are elegant. But as the week wears on, frigid winds whip the deck, gray skies fall, and Lo witnesses what she can only describe as a dark and terrifying nightmare: a woman being thrown overboard. The problem? All passengers remain accounted for—and so, the ship sails on as if nothing has happened, despite Lo’s desperate attempts to convey that something (or someone) has gone terribly, terribly wrong.

The Sistars spinoff follows Zac (Ellis) and Fatima (Hayslett) are young, happy, and in love. They have just moved in together, and they both agree: their lives are perfectly meshed, and whatever happened in the past does not matter. This approach to life and love works like a perfectly timed watch -- until other people knock on the door, dragging the past (and the future) in with them, and kicking that perfectly timed watch straight across the room and into a brick wall.
