The Accompanist takes place in messy, beautiful New Jersey and tells the story of two dented-up, magical people. One is a 70 year old named Sylvia. The other is an 8 year old named Emily. When Emily accidentally lets slip to the school nurse that her dementia-addled grandpa almost got them killed, a rookie child-welfare agent is sent to their house to investigate. A botched extraction ensues in which Emily is violently removed from her grandpa's home and dropped off with Sylvia, a new foster parent. (October 12 - November 17, 2024)

In this half-hour comedy, Broadway star and notorious narcissist Richard Bean (Kline) suffers a spectacular public meltdown, and returns to his tiny hometown and the family-run theater where he first became aware of his own brilliance. When he arrives, he is shocked to discover that his father, the former artistic director has slipped into a puppet-filled dementia, and that the once respected theater run by his brother (Tenney) and his wife (now the town's mayor) has become, by necessity, a low-rent dinner theater serving roast beef and murder mysteries. He decides to save the town, the theater and the world by presenting a great American classic on the dinner theater stage, directed by and starring, of course, himself.

The story follows a hunter in Yellowstone National Park who accidentally kills an endangered American wolf, and the unlikely friendship that forms between him and the wildlife researcher who works with wolves in the park. The story of O-Six, aka 832F, who was considered the world's most famous wild animal in some circles. The female alpha wolf was collared and tracked by researchers at Yellowstone and gained a huge following from both researchers and the public. She was shot by a hunter in 2012 just outside the park's boundaries — an act that caused howls around the country despite its legality and earned O-Six an obituary in the New York Times. "American Wolf" will chronicle the impact that O-Six had on the humans around her and the vilified hunter who remains unnamed to this day, effectively making the movie a murder mystery of sorts.

The film's title refers to its subject: a Presidential limousine nicknamed 'The Beast' by the Secret Service. The impenetrable tank is stocked with grenades, shotguns, armor-plating and bullet-and-bomb-proofing. When a militia of unidentified hostiles coordinates a coup against the U.S. presidency, the President (Jackson) uncovers the extent of The Beast's highly classified offensive capabilities. Separated from his wife, the President must learn to control The Beast — and the monster inside himself — in order to save his life, the life of Secret Service agent Taft (Kinnaman), and America.

In The Beast In Me, since the tragic death of her young son, acclaimed author Aggie Wiggs (Danes) has receded from public life, unable to write, a ghost of her former self. But she finds an unlikely subject for a new book when the house next door is bought by Nile Sheldon, a famed and formidable real estate mogul who was once the prime suspect in his wife's disappearance. At once horrified and fascinated by this man, Aggie finds herself compulsively hunting for the truth — chasing his demons while fleeing her own — in a game of cat and mouse that might turn deadly.

Centers around an ABBA tribute band who find themselves, along with various other tribute acts, trapped in a nightclub at the start of the apocalypse. Bjorn and his band must work together to save themselves, humanity, and the future of music. The horror comedy is set in the world of tribute bands. Bjorn, lead singer in Abbatoir, and his band mates Benny, Anni-Frid, and Agnetha spend their weekends covering Abba classics at a variety of increasingly depressing venues, from old folks' homes to empty pub back rooms. It's a grind and the band is ready to call it a day when Benny, the band's oldest and most needy member, hears of a Battle Of The Bands competition for tribute bands at The Niney Dimey. As the band arrives to load in their gear, things begin to go awry rather quickly. A disturbance in the main room of the venue rapidly gets out of control forcing Bjorn and his band to take cover backstage. Some of the other bands are injured from the fracas outside, injuries which soon present a problem when the wounded begin to metamorphose into bloodthirsty undead.

The Betancourt family has just moved from the projects of East LA to a tenement building in Spanish Harlem, NY, hoping for a fresh start and better life. Immediately, they feel like outcasts and are not welcomed by their eclectic neighbors as they has hoped. A severe snowstorm traps everybody inside the building on Christmas Eve, so it appears the Betancourts will be spending their first holiday in their new home in isolation. But when the building is overtaken by a horde of blood-thirsty, feral killer cats, the family and their new neighbors must overcome their differences and work together if they are going to survive until Christmas morning.

It's three thousand miles from the green fields of glory, where Henry "call me Hank" Thompson once played California baseball, to the Lower East Side of Manhattan, where the tenements are old, the rents are high, and the drunks are dirty. But now Hank is here, working as a bartender and taking care of a cat named Bud who is surely going to get him killed. It begins when Hank's neighbor, Russ, has to leave town in a rush and hands over Bud in a carrier. But it isn't until two Russians in tracksuits drag Hank over the bar at the joint where he works and beat him to a pulp that he starts to get the idea: Someone wants something from him. He just doesn't know what it is, where it is, or how to make them understand he doesn't have it. Within twenty-four hours Hank is running over rooftops, swinging his old aluminum bat for the sweet spot of a guy's head, playing hide and seek with the NYPD, riding the subway with a dead man at his side, and counting a whole lot of cash on a concrete floor. All because of two cowboys, two Russian mafia men, and some of the weirdest goons ever assembled in one place. All because of Bud. All because once, in another life, in another world, the only thing Hank wanted was to take third base—without getting caught. (September 9 - November 22, 2024)

The half-hour comedy based on an Eli Manning sketch that aired on ESPN+, follows a hotshot quarterback (Powell) whose college career ends after bad behavior. He then disguises himself as the talented and affable Chad Powers, who walks onto a struggling Southern football team. Zahn will play Jake Hudson, the charismatic Head Coach of the show's flagging college football program. He's about to be put out to pasture when along comes the talented oddball Chad Powers (Powell) – and with him, one last shot at glory. Mattfield will play the sweet and smart Ricky, the first female assistant football coach in Catfish History (University of Nashville) who is also the daughter of Catfish Head Coach, Jake Hudson. On the job for two months, she is fast-talking, pumped and eager to play a key role in the upcoming season. Also canny, with a good head on her shoulders, she may find Chad a tad odd, but is impressed by his tryout, later reminding him not to get too wrapped up in the newfound fandom. As a former college track star, she knows just how addictive it can be when one is idolized. (August 19 - October 15, 2024)

The small town of Holly Hills takes its annual Christmas letter competition very seriously, and this year a perennial second-place contestant tries a new tactic by calling on an acclaimed novelist to help her compose her entry. Funny yet touching, the story centers on Settie Rose, family matriarch with an abundance of personality. She, her friends and their community take part in a competition every year on who has written the best holiday letter. But Settie's a horrible writer - hers is the worst. Every year. So this year she's bringing in a ringer... Juan, a struggling novelist who has written one brilliant book and needs the money. Confusion and miscommunication upon his arrival and with their neighborhood nemesis (Sue Taylor) leads to the ruse that Juan's engaged to their daughter, Lily. While he's living with and getting to know the Roses, Settie and the whole family have to keep everyone in the close-knit community off his trail long enough for him to write the perfect letter. Through various Christmas activities and family interviews, initially-reluctant Juan learns what makes this family special, notably Lily, as they help each other navigate this unusual situation and Juan overcomes his writer's block. In the end, Settie realizes she had it in her all along, once she stops trying too hard and embraces her imperfect family, which has now expanded to include Juan's.

A string of high-level jewel heists up and down the Pacific Coast Highway has gone unsolved for years, mostly because the perpetrator has lived by a strict code he calls "Crime 101." Police attribute the thefts to the Colombian cartels. But Detective Lou Lubesnick's gut says it's the work of just one man. Now the lone-wolf jewel thief is looking for that fabled final last score and Lou breaks all the rules of Crime 101.

In the revival series, FBI's elite team of criminal profilers come up against their greatest threat yet, an UnSub who has used the pandemic to build a network of other serial killers. Now, as the world opens back up, the network goes operational, and the team must hunt them down, one murder at a time. The second season of Evolution picks up as the FBI's elite team of profilers investigates the deadly mystery of Gold Star. As the conspiracy unfolds, the Behavioral Analysis Unit (BAU) is met with an unexpected complication when serial killer Elias Voit negotiates a deal that transfers him to federal custody in the BAU's own backyard. The team faces its biggest threat yet and cannot emerge unscathed from the mind-bending consequences.

The spinoff is set in the world of The Neighborhood universe. It centers on its titular character Francois "Frank" Crutchfield (Morgan) – or "Crutch" to those who know him well – a hardworking owner of a flooring store in Harlem, who still grieves his late wife who passed five years ago, but manages to distract himself by proudly celebrating his children, Jake and Jamilah. After telling Jamilah to bring the grandkids over for more visits, and congratulating Jake for his new job at a top law firm, Crutch is shocked when his kids announce they might need to move back home. Crutch's new normal has suddenly become a lot more chaotic, but having family close might be just what he needs. (September 20 - November 22, 2024)

Forget diamonds—the internet is forever. Social media consultant Isla Thompson learned that lesson the hard way when she went viral for all the wrong reasons. A month later, Isla is still having nightmares about the moment she ruined a young starlet's career and made herself the most unemployable influencer in Manhattan. But she doesn't have the luxury of hiding until she's no longer Instagram poison. Not when her fourteen-year-old sister, Dani, needs Isla to keep a roof over their heads. So, she takes the first job she can get: caring for Camilla, a glossy-maned, foul-tempered hellhound. After a week of ferrying Camilla from playdates to pet psychics, Isla starts to suspect that the dachshund's bark is worse than her bite—just like her owner, Theo Garrison. Isla has spent her career working to make people likable and here's Theo—happy to hide behind his reputation as a brutish recluse. But Theo isn't a brute—he's sweet and funny, and Isla should not see him as anything but the man who signs her paychecks. Because loving Theo would mean retreating to his world of secluded luxury, and Isla needs to show Dani that no matter the risk, dreams are always worth chasing. (aka "PAWS IN THE CITY")

In this darker reimagining of the classic Robin Hood tale, the titular character, now a battle-worn loner, grapples with his violent past. Gravely injured, Robin is taken in by Sister Brigid, a mysterious healer who offers him a chance at redemption. Meanwhile, a young girl disguised as a boy encounters a hermit who kills her when she tries to attack him. The hermit's old friend, Edward, seeks his help to reclaim his stolen farm. Together, they brutally eliminate the family occupying it, but Edward loses his wife in the battle. When the local warlord learns of Robin's presence, he attacks, leading to a fierce confrontation. Near death, Robin is taken to Sister Brigid's island for healing.

The fascinating story behind the making of Bruce Springsteen's most surprising album, Nebraska, revealing its pivotal role in Springsteen's career. Without Nebraska, Bruce Springsteen might not be who he is today. The natural follow-up to Springsteen's hugely successful album The River should have been the hit-packed Born in the U.S.A. But instead, in 1982, he came out with an album consisting of a series of dark songs he had recorded by himself, for himself. But more than forty years later, Nebraska is arguably Springsteen's most important record—the lasting clue to understanding not just his career as an artist and the vision behind it, but also the man himself. Nebraska is rough and unfinished, recorded on cassette tape with a simple four-track recorder by Springsteen, alone in his bedroom, just as the digital future was announcing itself. And yet Springsteen now considers it his best album. Nebraska expressed a turmoil that was reflective of the mood of the country, but it was also a symptom of trouble in the artist's life, the beginnings of a mental breakdown that Springsteen would only talk about openly decades after the album's release.

Maggie Webb has lived the last decade caring for elderly husband, Stanley, as memory loss gradually erases all the beautiful moments they created together. It's the loneliest she's ever felt in her life. When a mysterious stranger named Hassan appears at her door, he reveals a shocking truth: Stanley isn't losing his memories. Someone is actively removing them to hide a long-buried secret from coming to light. If Maggie does what she's told, she can reverse it. She can get her husband back. Led by Hassan and his technological marvels, Maggie breaks into her husband's mind, probing the depths of his memories in an effort to save him. The deeper she dives, the more she unravels a mystery spanning continents and centuries, each layer more complex than the last. But Hassan cannot be trusted. Not just memories are disappearing, but pieces of reality itself. If Maggie cannot find out what Stanley did all those years ago, and what Hassan is after, she risks far more than her husband's life. The very course of human history hangs in the balance.

Fallout is the story of haves and have-nots in a world in which there's almost nothing left to have. Two-hundred years after the apocalypse, the gentle denizens of luxury fallout shelters are forced to return to the irradiated hellscape their ancestors left behind—and are shocked to discover an incredibly complex, gleefully weird, and highly violent universe waiting for them. The series stars Ella Purnell as Lucy, an optimistic Vault-dweller with an all-American can-do spirit. Her peaceful and idealistic nature is tested when she is forced to the surface to rescue her father. Aaron Moten is Maximus, a young soldier who rises to the rank of squire in the militaristic faction called the Brotherhood of Steel. He will do anything to further the Brotherhood's goals of bringing law and order to the wasteland. Walton Goggins is the Ghoul, a morally ambiguous bounty hunter who holds within him a 200-year history of the post-nuclear world. These disparate parties collide when chasing an artifact from an enigmatic researcher that has the potential to radically change the power dynamic in this world. Going Dutch follows arrogant loudmouth U.S. Army Colonel (Leary), who after an epically unfiltered rant, is reassigned to the Netherlands, where he is punished with a command position at the least important army base in the world. After serving with distinction in every warzone of the last three decades, he now finds himself in charge of a base with no guns, weapons, or tactical purpose. Instead, it has a Michelin-star level commissary, a top-notch bowling alley, and the best (and only) fromagerie in the U.S. Army. Surrounded by a diverse group of underdogs, the colonel tries to reinstall military discipline and professionalism with the help of the base’s previous interim leader, who happens to be his estranged daughter.

Harriet and Wyn have been the perfect couple since they met in college—they go together like salt and pepper, honey and tea, lobster and rolls. Except, now—for reasons they're still not discussing—they don't. They broke up five months ago. And still haven't told their best friends. Which is how they find themselves sharing a bedroom at the Maine cottage that has been their friend group's yearly getaway for the last decade. Their annual respite from the world, where for one vibrant, blissful week they leave behind their daily lives; have copious amounts of cheese, wine, and seafood; and soak up the salty coastal air with the people who understand them most. Only this year, Harriet and Wyn are lying through their teeth while trying not to notice how desperately they still want each other. Because the cottage is for sale and this is the last week they'll all have together in this place. They can't stand to break their friends' hearts, and so they'll play their parts. Harriet will be the driven surgical resident who never starts a fight, and Wyn will be the laid-back charmer who never lets the cracks show. It's a flawless plan (if you look at it from a great distance and through a pair of sunscreen-smearing sunglasses). After years of being in love, how hard can it be to fake it for one week...in front of those who know you best?

A corporate spy poses as a personal chef to the disgraced founder of a neuroprosthetics firm in order to steal his seismic-shifting new invention from his secluded villa in Greece. Jacob Dalton, a rising chef in his late 20s, lands a dream job with a world-renowned chef. However, tech billionaire Graham Caldwell offers him a lucrative position as his private chef in Greece, and Jacob accepts. Unbeknownst to Graham, Jacob is covertly working for his son, Niles Caldwell, to steal groundbreaking brain technology. At Graham's villa, Jacob realizes the task is more complex due to tight security. He must gain Graham's trust for access. Meanwhile, Jacob discovers Graham's tech can vividly recreate memories. But the darker side reveals potential for mind control. Realizing he might be manipulated, Jacob plans a risky escape.

The drama tells the story of Ramla Ali who fled Somalia with her family as a young girl, seeking asylum in London from the civil war. As a teenager, she pursued her love of boxing but did so secretly as she knew her family would disapprove. Her determination to win led her to the England Novice National Championship, the Elite National Championships and the Great British Championships. Ali became the first boxer, male or female, to represent Somalia at the 2020 Olympic Games and made history after winning the first ever professional female boxing match in Saudi Arabia. She won her first professional IBF intercontinental title at Superbantam weight this year at Madison Square Gardens and was named by Time magazine as one of its 2023 Women of the Year. The coming-of-age film traces Ramla's extraordinary journey within a strict Muslim family in London's multicultural East End, capturing her pursuit of self-discovery and empowerment. This helped her step out of the shadows to claim her identity and voice amidst her own religious and cultural frameworks. The film also illuminates the collective challenges faced by Somali British Muslim women and similar diaspora and refugee communities globally, demonstrating the power of perseverance against cultural and societal odds.

The contemporary adaptation of Anne Rice's gothic novel follows Louis de Pointe du Lac (Jacob Anderson), Lestat de Lioncourt (Sam Reid) and Claudia's (Bailey Bass) story of love and immortality, as told to journalist Daniel Molloy (Eric Bogosian). In Season 3, resentful of the perfunctory portrayal in the trashy bestseller Interview With the Vampire, the Vampire Lestat sets his story straight in a way only the Vampire Lestat can — by starting a band and going on tour. Gabrielle. Nicholas. Magnus. Marius. Those Who Must Be Kept. In 2007, a short blogpost on Valleywag, the Silicon Valley-vertical of Gawker Media, ousted PayPal founder and billionaire investor Peter Thiel (Damon) as gay. Thiel's sexuality had been known to close friends and family, but he didn't consider himself a public figure, and believed the information was private. This post would be the casus belli for a meticulously plotted conspiracy that would end nearly a decade later with a $140 million dollar judgment against Gawker, its bankruptcy and with Nick Denton, Gawker's CEO and founder, out of a job. Only later would the world learn that Gawker's demise was not incidental—it had been masterminded by Thiel. For years, Thiel had searched endlessly for a solution to what he'd come to call the "Gawker Problem." When an unmarked envelope delivered an illegally recorded sex tape of Hulk Hogan (Affleck) with his best friend's wife, Gawker had seen the chance for millions of pageviews and to say the things that others were afraid to say. Thiel saw their publication of the tape as the opportunity he was looking for. He would come to pit Hogan against Gawker in a multi-year proxy war through the Florida legal system, while Gawker remained confidently convinced they would prevail as they had over so many other lawsuit—until it was too late. The verdict would stun the world and so would Peter's ultimate unmasking as the man who had set it all in motion. Why had he done this? How had no one discovered it? What would this mean—for the First Amendment? For privacy? For culture?

A large haul of diamonds and an enormous ruby are stolen by a gang led by seasoned criminal Terri Steel (Collins) under orders from the notorious French Mafia, headed by the ruthless Annie Ennaud (Kaprisky). Getting her hands on the jewels was easy for Terri, but getting them through the UK border security across the English Channel to France would be more of a challenge. An opportunity arises when Terri learns that one of her criminal associates, Dominic Taylor's (Bishop) fiancé, Helen, is taking part in a charity bike ride from London to Paris with her friends Emma (McMonagle) and Ben (Young). It doesn't take long for her to 'persuade' Dominic, against his will, to plant the jewels in the bike frames.

Angry after her family moves to Brazil, teenage Poe Rayburn (Boulet) is frustrated. But when her parents are killed in an apartment bombing and she's the only witness, she must go on the run from terrorists using the the skills her ex-Special Forces Father instilled in her to survive. Abdul-Mateen II will lead as John Creasy, a once high-functioning and skilled Special Forces Mercenary, known for surviving even the most desolate of situations. Creasy is now plagued with intense PTSD. Determined to overcome his personal demons, he sets out on a path to redemption. But, before he can adjust to this new life, he finds himself back in the fire, fighting harder than ever. Cannavale will play Paul Rayburn, an ex-Special Forces soldier who possesses a unique ability to read people. He is charming, nurturing, and protective of those he cares for. Despite his warm, fatherly nature, his years of service in the field have given him an acute awareness of violence and human behavior. Quick-witted and incredibly intellectual, he is likely to have all the answers, and if not, he will find them. (August 2024 - March 2025)

About professional ping pong player Marty Reisman (Chalamet), who died in 2012, was a table tennis champion who started his career as a hustler in Manhattan, playing for bets and prize money. He won 22 major ping pong titles from 1946 to 2002 and won five bronze medals at the World Table Tennis Championships. At 67, he competed in the United States National Hardbat Championship and became the oldest player to win an open national competition in a racket sport. He was known as the “wizard of table tennis” and even opened for the Harlem Globetrotters with his ping pong comedy routine. (September 30 - December 19, 2024 | aka “UNTITLED ITTF PROJECT”)

Alain marries Virginie in the crypt of the Saint-Joseph oratory of Mont-Royal. On the surface, it will be the happiest day of his life – of their lives. Everyone is there, the bride's parents, the great friend, the narrator's parents – Lebanese from Egypt who immigrated to Quebec thirty years ago, divorced for twenty, who haven't spoken to each other for ten. But, as the celebration approaches, Alain is worse than ever. Insomnia is back, anxiety and illness too. And today, his cousin Édouard, his best man, his brother, is losing his footing, carried away by the crazy mechanics of a denial of biblical proportions. Alain prays that fate spares them, so that this great day will be one of them. one of celebration and healing. But a name resurfaces at the turn of a sentence, a cursed name brought up from the depths of his memory, where the shame and pain of the dark years lie, a name that is soon joined by a voice, a body, a story. A ghost becomes flesh, which has many faces. And everything we wanted to forget, everything we refused to see, everything we hated comes to claim its due. As we make our bed we go to bed. The Morning Show explores the cutthroat world of morning news and the lives of the people who help America wake up in the morning. Told through the lens of two complicated women working to navigate the minefield of high-octane jobs while facing crises in both their personal and professional lives, The Morning Show looks at the power dynamics between women and men, and women and women, in the workplace. Season 3 left the fate of UBA once again up in the air after Alex (Aniston) manages to take down Paul Marks (Hamm) by log jamming the sale of UBA to his tech company, Hyperion. But now, it appears UBA will be merging with another media company to keep the network afloat, which could spell layoffs and restructuring to come in Season 4. In the weird glow of the dying millennium, Michael Lewis sets out on a safari through Silicon Valley to find the world's most important technology entrepreneur, the man who embodies the spirit of the coming age. He finds him in Jim Clark, who is about to create his third, separate, billion-dollar company: first Silicon Graphics, then Netscape - which launched the Information Age - and now Healtheon, a startup that may turn the $1 trillion healthcare industry on its head. Despite the variety of his achievements, Clark thinks of himself mainly as the creator of Hyperion, which happens to be a sailboat - not just an ordinary yacht, but the world's largest single-mast vessel, a machine more complex than a 747. Clark claims he will be able to sail it via computer from his desk in San Francisco, and the new code may contain the seeds of his next billion-dollar coup.

Two best friends. Ten summer trips. One last chance to fall in love. Poppy and Alex. Alex and Poppy. They have nothing in common. She's a wild child; he wears khakis. She has insatiable wanderlust; he prefers to stay home with a book. And somehow, ever since a fateful car share home from college many years ago, they are the very best of friends. For most of the year they live far apart—she's in New York City, and he's in their small hometown—but every summer, for a decade, they have taken one glorious week of vacation together. Until two years ago, when they ruined everything. They haven't spoken since. Poppy has everything she should want, but she's stuck in a rut. When someone asks when she was last truly happy, she knows, without a doubt, it was on that ill-fated, final trip with Alex. And so, she decides to convince her best friend to take one more vacation together—lay everything on the table, make it all right. Miraculously, he agrees. Now she has a week to fix everything. If only she can get around the one big truth that has always stood quietly in the middle of their seemingly perfect relationship. What could possibly go wrong? (September 2 - October 31, 2024)

The story here is thrust into motion in the early hours of June 25th, 1979, when the affluent Main Line area of Philadelphia was rocked by the brutal slaying of English teacher Susan Reinert. The case, which became one of the most infamous in the region's history, began when Susan's naked body was discovered stuffed in the trunk of her car in a Harrisburg motel parking lot. Her children, Karen and Michael, were missing, presumed dead, although their bodies were never found. The shocking nature of the murders quickly captivated public attention and drew intense media scrutiny, highlighting significant flaws in the criminal justice system, including issues of evidence handling and prosecutorial ethics.

Sylvia (Byrne) and Will (Rogen) were platonic friends in college who haven't seen each other in years, since they each got married. Now with Will's marriage over and Sylvia's still going strong, Will and Sylvia re-connect and it's clear that their old platonic magic is still there. The question is, can a 40 something man and woman have a platonic friendship without either having sex or killing each other? (w/t "NAPA")

In the chilling sequel to The Postcard Killings, NYPD detective Jacob Kanon (Morgan) faces new terror. Haunted by his daughter's murder, Jacob is thrust back into the fray when his ex-wife Valerie (Janssen) is kidnapped by a new “Postcard Killer,” who is on a brutal murder spree across Europe. The case spirals when Jacob confronts his old nemesis, Simon Haysmith (O'Hare), to track down the elusive criminal and initiate a manhunt. With Valerie held captive and only cryptic postcards for clues, Jacob must navigate a deadly maze to decipher the killer's vengeful plot. Caught in a tense cat-and-mouse game, Jacob races to rescue Valerie, before she becomes the next victim of the reborn fine art killer.

Tani Adewumi didn't know what Boko Haram was or why they had threatened his family. All he knew was that when his parents told the family was going to America, Tani thought it was the start of a great adventure rather than an escape. In truth, his family's journey to the United States was nothing short of miraculous—and the miracles were just beginning. Tani's father, Kayode, became a dishwasher and Uber driver while Tani's mother, Oluwatoyin, cleaned buildings, while the family lived in a homeless shelter. Eight-year-old Tani jumped into his new life with courage and perseverance—and an unusual mind for chess. After joining the chess club in his public school, Tani practiced his game for hours in the evenings at the shelter. And less than a year after he learned to play, Tani won the New York State chess championship.

The faith-based film is a modern-day retelling of Ruth and Boaz, one of the most iconic love stories in the Bible. After her decision to walk away from a potential record deal leads to a tragic act of revenge, Ruth feels called to join her late boyfriend's mother Naomi, as they both leave Atlanta for a small town in Tennessee to start over from scratch. The only job she can find involves laboring at a local vineyard, leading her to owner Bo "Boaz" Astra, who falls for Ruth the moment he lays eyes on her. Ruth holds tight to her faith and slowly begins to accept love, but her past is soon to catch up with her.

A drama about an all-deaf commune, the film will feature extensive sign-language. Retreat is a thriller about identity and to what lengths people will go in order to fight for what they believe in. Grace, a deaf college dropout, has spent her life trying to fit in. In her first few weeks at university, a familiar isolation has taken hold. Then she meets Ben, a deaf man, who introduces her to 'the village', a deaf-only commune situated in countryside, miles from anywhere. A place where sign language is the only language, a place where she can be herself. Grace drops out of her studies to join the commune. She thinks she has found her utopia. But she then discovers the shocking lengths that the founders will go to protect their way of life from the outside world. (September 2 - October 11, 2024)

Ben Richards is a desperate man. With no job, no money, no way out, and a young daughter in need of proper medical attention, he must turn to the only possibility of striking it rich in this near-future dystopian America: participating in the ultra-violent TV programming of the government-sanctioned Games Network. Ben soon finds himself selected as a contestant on the biggest and the best that the Games Network has to offer: "The Running Man," a no-holds-barred thirty-day struggle to stay alive as public enemy number one, relentlessly hunted by an elite strike force bent on killing him as quickly as possible in front of an audience all-too eager to see that happen. It means a billion dollars in prize money if he can live for the next month. No one has ever survived longer than eight days. But desperation can push a person do things they never thought possible—and Ben Richards is willing to go the distance in this ultimate game of life and death. (Katy O'Brian mentioned for a role.)

After the death of his mother, shy and artistic Gus Shepard (18) travels to Livingston, Montana to live with his absent, woodworking father, Dan Shepard (50s). However, he is quickly distracted by an attractive and rebellious skateboarder, Bridger Owens, whom Gus promises to build a handcrafted board for in exchange for skating lessons. Romantic tension soon builds between the unlikely young friends while swimming, skating, sketching, and exploring the stunning nature around them. Max Stevens, the brash leader of the local skate crew, doesn't like that Bridger spends increasingly more time with Gus and becomes jealous: hiding his own growing feelings towards his absent best friend. An effortlessly cool Skater Girl named Tara Shae also finds Gus intriguing, but unlike the other local boys, she finds kinship in Gus for his dreams of being an artist and escaping their small hometown. Tara senses in Gus that he may also be queer like her after noticing his blossoming deep friendship with Bridger. After a boozy bonfire party in the woods, a vulnerable conversation sparks intense feelings that both Gus and Bridger can no longer deny. The boys' shared secret lessons and changes in demeanor start causing suspicion amongst their local friends and family. Their small town feels inescapable. When the boys notice leftover wood scraps from Dan's carpentry shop, they decide to create a side business selling homemade boards around town. This leads to their relationship getting exposed and both boys must come clean. The pressures of hiding their truths, fitting in, and life-changing too fast causes Gus and Bridger's fragile bond to fracture. The boys debate if life's challenges are even worth their risks and struggle to find the next step forward before their picturesque summer's end threatens to pull them apart.

Gemma is on a collision course with heartbreak. At least, according to the fortune-teller her best friend drags her to see. Gemma doesn't believe a word of it, but when other predictions start to come true, she begins to suspect that gorgeous, gray-eyed Nick is the man foretold to break her heart before she can find her soul mate. Too bad she's never met a man she's wanted more, because now she has to get him to dump her before she falls too hard. Nick has plans of his own. He's ready to settle down with Ms. Right, and everything points to the beautiful Gemma. He's determined to prove to her that he's the perfect boyfriend—even if she does seem to be trying her best to scare him off.

To her colleagues' surprise, Tess Bell, one of the best detectives in the business, takes leave from her job. What Tess isn't telling them is the fact she is losing her sight due to a rapid onset eye disease. Tess is haunted by her most recent case and blames herself for not taking the shot that could have halted a perpetrator from escaping with his desperately injured victim, now presumably dead. When the woman's husband, whom Tess believes is innocent, is wrongfully tagged for the crime, she is determined to find the real culprit. Assisting Tess in her now unofficial investigation is Sunny Patel, the guide who has been helping her navigate her surroundings, via GPS and video, from 3,000 miles away. Along with Tess's best friend, tech whiz Matt Okafor, the three make an unusual but effective crime-fighting team, acting in concert to bring a twisted serial abductor to justice. When Tess questions Sunny's insistence on teaming up with her, Sunny claims that she's an agoraphobe who finds her new association a welcome escape from her constricted life. For now, Tess is keeping her loss of vision a closely held secret. But as we learn, Sunny may have her own shocking secret -- a past tragedy that she is determined to redress using the skills she learns from Tess. (September 9 - November 22, 2024)

London's Slough House is where the washed-up MI5 spies go to while away what's left of their failed careers. The "slow horses", as they're called, have all disgraced themselves in some way to get relegated here. Maybe they messed up an op badly and can't be trusted anymore. Maybe they got in the way of an ambitious colleague and had the rug yanked out from under them. Maybe they just got too dependent on the bottle - not unusual in this line of work. One thing they all have in common, though, is they all want to be back in the action. And most of them would do anything to get there - even if it means having to collaborate with one another. Now the slow horses have a chance at redemption. In the fifth outing, everyone is suspicious when resident tech nerd Roddy Ho (Christopher Chung) has a glamorous new girlfriend, but when a series of increasingly bizarre events occur across the city, it falls to the Slow Horses to work out how everything is connected. Set against the backdrop of a remote loch-side Scottish holiday cabin park and set over the course of one single rainy summer's day, Summerwater looks at the simmering tensions between holidaymakers that eventually erupt into a devastating climax. Weaving together the lives of several families as they navigate unspoken conflicts, private dilemmas, and fleeting moments of beauty from their disparate cabins, the series will take an unflinching but empathetic look at human nature across generations. Each episode will spotlight one or two of the ensemble of characters, spanning from young children to young lovers to reminiscing pensioners, to build a subversive, often witty, and always riveting portrait of the nation on edge that is modern Britain.

In Ted, the series, it's 1993 and Ted the bear's moment of fame has passed, leaving him living with his best friend, 16-year-old John Bennett (Burkholder), who lives in a working-class Boston home with his parents and cousin. Ted may not be the best influence on John, but when it comes right down to it, Ted's willing to go out on a limb to help his friend and his family. Whigham will play Blaire Bennett, a smart and politically correct college student who's living with her Uncle Matty, Aunt Susan and younger cousin John. She is not afraid to be outspoken and frequently clashes with her more traditionalist family. Grimes will play Matty Bennett, a blustering, blue-collar Bostonian who thinks he is the unequivocal boss in the family, and doesn't like anyone challenging him, particularly his liberal-minded niece, Blaire. Twilight Of The Dead forms the posthumous conclusion of George A. Romero's horror franchise, which began in 1968 with Night Of The Living Dead. In this last of a total of seven films, all that's left of humanity is the female protagonist (The Woman) and the eight-year-old girl (The Girl) who was rescued from her mutated mother at birth. After years of odyssey on a yacht with no human contact, the two end up on a tropical island where two communities have evolved: a male-dominated, voraciously aggressive community and an evolved, matriarchally organized, peaceful community that respects life. Humanity's last stand takes place on this idyllic island with unexpected results.

In a town where tranquility apparently reigns and everyone knows each other, Raúl and his father Jesús arrive, as Jesús needs to handle some paperwork. Jesús, a Mexican immigrant who has been living in New York for the past 20 years, must return to his hometown for the first time since he left to manage his inheritance following his mother's death. This visit serves as a pretext for Raúl to meet his uncle Arturo and to learn more about his family's past. While Jesús goes to the state capital to take care of the paperwork, he leaves Raúl with Arturo. During their stay, a rumor begins to spread about a "group of kidnapers" who allegedly take children and remove their organs. This fake news, rapidly disseminated via WhatsApp, causes the townspeople to immediately distrust the newcomers, casting a shadow over the seemingly peaceful visit.

The comedy revolves around Leanne, whose life takes an unexpected turn when her husband of 33 years leaves her for another woman. Starting over when you're a grandmother and in menopause isn't exactly what she had in mind, but with the help of her family she will navigate this new chapter with grace, dignity and Jell-o salad. Johnston will star opposite Morgan as her sister Carol, a two-time divorcee with no kids who would rather hang out at a bar than attend church. Despite their differences, Carol is fiercely loyal to her sister Leanne and is her ride-or-die.

Inspired by true events, The Waterfront dives into the flawed Buckley family as their attempts to retain control of their crumbling North Carolina fishing empire drive them to increasingly dangerous means to keep themselves afloat. McCallany will play the patriarch Harlan Buckley who has built up the Buckley fishery business with his dad, even veering into some illegal territory in the 1980s. Since his two heart attacks, Harlan hasn't changed his lifestyle, but his absence from the family business left it in the hands of his wife, Vicki, and his son, Cane — whose desperate, foolish decisions have left Harlan with no choice but to take the reins once again. Is Harlan a hero? A villain? It's a hard call. He's just a man who loves his whiskey.

Wednesday is a one-hour mystery drama charting Wednesday Addams' misadventures as student at Nevermore Academy: a very unique boarding school snuggled in deepest New England. Without ever blunting her bite, the show offers the chance to humanize Wednesday. After getting kicked out of eight schools in five years Willa is beginning a new chapter in her life at the academy, the two century old boarding school attended by her parents. However, Willa wants nothing to do with their alma mater and she's already planning her escape. But this academy is like no other school she's ever attended. it's a school of outcasts with four groups - The Fangs (vampires), the Furs (werewolves), the Scales (sirens) and the Stoners. It is also a place of mystery that holds dark secrets about her family's past. Season one will chart Wednesday's attempts to master her emerging psychic ability, thwart a monstrous killing spree that has terrorized the local town, solve the murder mystery that embroiled her parents 25 years ago and confront a dark supernatural threat — all while navigating her new and very tangled relationships at Nevermore.

Thirteen-year-old Ben is sent to a remote reform program for troubled teens by a juvenile court judge. But when he arrives at the camp, located on the edge of the vast wilderness of northwestern Montana, he immediately recognizes that there is something off about the counselors. They're too friendly and upbeat...yet Ben can tell there's an undercurrent of menace. As he gets to know the boys in his cabin, he soon discovers that they each have far more going for them than whatever crime landed them there. And each has a different critical skill, one that could help them unearth what is really going on in this place—and how to make it out alive. They are inching ever closer to the truth, and the hidden evil beneath the camp's surface will make itself known in order to deter them.

The Woman in Me chronicles Britney Spears's rise to fame, her public struggles, and her fight to escape a restrictive conservatorship. Spears reveals personal traumas, including her grandmother's tragic death and her own early experiences with smoking and loss of virginity. She discusses her relationship with Justin Timberlake, including his infidelities and pressuring her into an abortion, and her subsequent breakdowns. Spears recounts her fleeting marriage to Jason Alexander, her rocky relationship with sister Jamie Lynn, and her struggles with motherhood and postpartum depression. The memoir offers a new perspective on her infamous head-shaving incident and paparazzi altercation.
