“THE 9,009 LIVES OF A COCAINE GOD” Feature Film

OBJECTIVELY GOOD MEDIA

info@objectivelygood.com

STATUS: Development

PRODUCER: Matthew Cooper - Andy Daddario - Carlos Vieira WRITER: Chris Shafer - Paul Vicknair

Successful entrepreneur Carlos Vieira was raised on his family's sweet potato farm in Livingston, California. As a teenager, Vieira is popular and athletic, all set to join the family business, but the allure of recreational drug use leads to a party lifestyle that derails both his career and personal life. In this cautionary tale, we see how the isolation of addiction affects every aspect of Vieira's existence. Here are the binges, the excesses, the relapses, the rehabs, the arrests, the nights in jail, and the multiple resolutions to recover. At age thirty-four, he finally stops once and for all. Through it all, he offers a timeless message: no matter what you may be struggling with—family challenges, addiction, financial issues, health troubles, or relationship problems—you can pull yourself from the brink, knock down a new door, and create a brand-new life, becoming the person you were always meant to be. Alpha represents the origin and birth, in contrast with the Omega, the end, death. But an origin also implies the notion of a threshold, and thus of a transition or passage. The Alpha is an empty and desolate liminal space, but one that is simultaneously filled with the past and future that it harbors. In this sense, it is a space of discomfort, forever doomed to be something other than what it is. Alpha is the name of the protagonist. At 11, she is the incarnation of this liminal space: she's not exactly a child anymore, but she's not an adult either. She's neither one nor the other. And yet she's very much there.

An action comedy about aliens sent to invade Earth whose mission is undone when they discover emotions. They look and sound human, but Alpha Gang are aliens, sent on a mission to conquer Earth. Armed and dangerous, they show no mercy, until they catch the most toxic, contagious human disease of all: emotion. Their plan for world domination is in danger of derailing once they start to feel joy, fear, empathy, and – worst of all – love... But hopefully they can still annihilate mankind before it's too late.

And Then There Were None by Agatha Christie is a gripping mystery about ten strangers invited to a secluded island under false pretenses. Soon after arriving, they discover they are being accused of past crimes. One by one, they begin to die in ways mirroring a haunting nursery rhyme displayed in the house. As paranoia and fear grip the survivors, they realize the killer is among them, meticulously enacting justice. With no way to escape and trust unraveling, the tension builds to a shocking climax.

'Beyond the Gates' is set in a leafy Maryland suburb just outside of Washington, D.C., and in one of the most affluent African American counties in the United States. Here you'll find a posh gated community with winding tree-lined streets and luxurious mansions to call home. At the center of this community are the Duprees, a powerful and prestigious multi-generational family that is the very definition of Black royalty. But behind these pristine walls and lush, manicured gardens are juicy secrets and scandals waiting to be uncovered. And those that live outside these gates are watching closely. These are the places where our characters live, love, work and play. Those who have 'made it' and those who haven't are all trying to navigate life ... and some with more grace than others. Based on a real-life story, The Billion Dollar Spy will follow Brad Reid a fresh arrival at the Moscow station of the CIA, where he's approached by Soviet engineer Adolf Tolkachev. Ignoring the advice from his bosses that Tolkachev is an obvious KGB 'dangle', Reid develops a bond and unique friendship with the Russian, who seemingly only wants to help his family escape the corruption within the Soviet Union. Reid's faith in Tolkachev is rewarded when he hands over a treasure trove of military secrets, obtained using classic Cold War spy craft. It earns Tolkachev the nickname 'The Billion Dollar Spy' and alters the balance of power between East and West. But their success in evading the KGB comes at great personal cost to both men, and their marriages to wives Tina and Natasha, all struggling with the daily paranoia of being caught. Then one day a shocking betrayal puts them all in grave danger.

A story of friendship and sacrifice, Black Doves is set during Christmastime in London. It revolves around Helen Webb (Knightley), a politician's wife, doting mother — and professional spy. For years, Helen has been passing on her husband's secrets to the Black Doves, the shadowy organization for whom she works. But when her lover Jason is assassinated, Helen's life is turned upside down and only her old friend Sam Young (Whishaw) can keep her safe. Helen and Sam set out to discover who killed Jason and why. But Sam, a suave, champagne-drinking assassin, also has problems of his own. Out of the game since his last job went wrong, he soon realizes his past is coming back to haunt him. Together, they set off on a mission that will lead them to uncover a vast, interconnected conspiracy. One that links the murky underworld of London to a looming geopolitical crisis — and leads them to question the cost of the moral choices they've made. Lancashire will play Helen's enigmatic spymaster Reed.

Annie Willows had her dream life, with a husband she had loved since high school, a daughter they both adored, and a fast-paced police job in the big city. But when her husband dies, Annie returns to her small hometown to become the deputy sheriff there until a new job opens up in another big city. Determined not to lay down roots in the small town and hardened by her grief, Annie pushes everyone away, even her daughter Leia. As Christmas approaches and the town sees its first theft in years, Annie and Sheriff Tom Hay are left with a mystery no one can solve. Will the thrill of solving the case and the charm of her hometown be enough to soften Annie's heart and remind her the true value of Christmas before it's too late for her to find happiness again?

The show is inspired by the comedy of Fredericks, who plays Corey Carr Jr., a character that finds himself at a crossroads when his father's mega-church decides not to let him inherit its leadership. Instead, Corey moves to Lubbock, Texas, to build his own ministry. However, after quickly stumbling upon the realization that small-town church life is an entirely different ball game, Corey slowly accepts that the path to spiritual leadership might just be funnier and more profound than any sermon could ever teach.

In Cold Water, Lincoln plays John, a repressed man who is shocked to find himself in middle age, secretly raging at his life as a stay-at-home dad. When his failure to intervene in a violent confrontation in a playground brings his identity crisis to a head, John ups and moves his family to the rural idyll of Coldwater, as far away from London as possible. Upon arrival, John is quickly befriended by next-door neighbor Tommy (Bremner), a charming, confident man, devoted husband to the local vicar Rebecca (Myles). He is a man of faith, a pillar of the community and self-appointed leader of the village's all-male book group. John is both impressed and slightly fascinated by Tommy. His wife Fiona (Varma) despises him. As a successful former chef hoping to launch a new venture in Coldwater, Fiona sees the move as an opportunity to leave the past behind them. To not only re-build their lives as a family but re-ignite the long-lost spark in their fading marriage. When her husband's relationship with their enigmatic new neighbor becomes increasingly intense, Fiona's suspicions are aroused. She is unconvinced Tommy is all he seems to be. But John remains blissfully unaware that Tommy is harboring horrifying secrets, and it's only after a series of unsettling incidents start to occur that John begins to wonder who the real Tommy actually is. And when John's long-repressed rage comes to a head with disastrous results, he soon finds himself unexpectedly indebted to his new friend.

Dark Frequencies follows DJ, a mentally-plagued electronica musician, who stumbles upon the "Master Frequency"—a dangerous sound wave that distorts the body and mind. DJ's skin peels, their mind fractures, and those exposed to the frequency begin to transform into killers. As DJ falls deeper into the frequency's grasp, they must save their love, Eva, from the same horrific fate. Set in the cold, isolated town of Sudbury, Ontario, during the harsh winter, Dark Frequencies is a story of survival, obsession, and transformation, bringing queer representation to the forefront of a genre that has often overlooked it.

Set in a near future Margate, against a backdrop of soaring inequality, The Dream Lands tells the story of Chance, a young woman who discovers life and love, while being forced to fight for her family's survival in a world that's crumbling around her. It's 2039 and temperatures are soaring, seas are rising, and the political climate is equally as menacing. Chance is living a life of crime just to get by, when her community is singled out for a government rejuvenation scheme, promising to bring her coastal town back to life. But when Chance falls in love with Franky, a girl with ties to the establishment, she and those closest to her begin to realize that all may not be as it seems. The Dream Lands is a thrilling voyage of romantic awakening and self-discovery, a defiant community fighting back. Part conspiracy thriller and part relationship drama, the story blazes with the enduring power of love and hope, in a world spinning out of control.

New York, June 1961: the Bill Evans Trio, featuring 25-year-old Scott LaFaro on bass, play a series of concerts at the Village Vanguard that will go down in musical history. Shortly afterwards, LaFaro is killed in a car accident, and Evans disappears. This novel the story of what happens next. In measured, evocative prose, it takes a period from the life of one of America's great artists and fashions it into a fiction of extraordinary imaginative skill and ambition. The story inhabits the lives of four people in orbit around a tragedy, presenting an intense and moving portrait of the burden of grief, and of a man lost to his family and to himself. It is also a conjuring of a pivotal moment in American music and culture, and a unique representation of the jazz scene in the early 1960s.

The forces of heaven and hell are set to return for another colorful battle over the fate of humankind. Season 2 explored storylines that go beyond the original source material to illuminate the uncanny friendship between Aziraphale (Michael Sheen), a fussy angel and rare book dealer, and the fast-living demon Crowley (David Tennant). Having been on Earth since The Beginning and with the Apocalypse now thwarted, Aziraphale and Crowley are getting back to easy living amongst mortals in London's Soho when an unexpected messenger presents a surprising mystery.

Grand Prairie is a captivating visual odyssey shot on IMAX 70mm, set in Alberta, Canada. A hybrid docu-narrative, the film explores how our identity is connected to and shaped by the landscape around us. The film hypnotically moves through a diverse cast of all ages and backgrounds, each small story emblematic of a distinct tie to the land the character has. These moments poetically weave together with stunning shots of the different landscapes that personify each, to create an immersive non-linear experience. (January 15 - February 28, 2025)

Connor MacLeod, an immortal from the Highlands of Scotland who has been alive since the 1500s and now lives in plain sight as the head of a charitable foundation in New York. He was killed back in the day and somehow revived to live a full life with his wife and love Heather, and when approached by Ramirez with talk of his immortal nature and destiny, he refuses to abandon her until her death by natural causes, and never stops missing her even today. Then he looks up Ramirez and learns of their powers and their place as warriors, and their destiny to battle amongst themselves until only one remains. He has lived many lives over the centuries and counted Ramirez as his companion along the journey, as well as fellow immortal Castegir. But the strongest among them Kurgan is out to claim supremacy, and one day found Connor and Ramirez centuries in the past and killed the latter. Connor then bested Kurgan and buried him under tons of rock and told the others he was dead. But now Kurgan has surfaced again and is out for blood. FBI agent Lara suspects Connor when people start turning up dead but he evades her, until she witnesses herself that those like him and Kurgan cannot be killed except by one another. He is found by Castegir and tries to get him to join forces against Kurgan, but Castegir is after power himself and Connor is forced to fight him. An evocative romance fictionalizing the inspiration behind Daphne Du Maurier's Rebecca. The Housekeeper is set in the mystic, brooding and wild landscape of Cornwall, the rugged Atlantic foot of England, where Danni (Thurman), housekeeper at Manderville Hall — a grand and historic house owned by the wealthy and widowed Lord DeWithers (Hopkins) — falls prey to the glance of a young and beautiful visitor, the novelist Daphne Du Maurier (Dynevor). For one, their affair is an all-consuming love, for the other an intoxicating realization of her secret longings.

The Housemaid tells the story of Millie (Sweeney), a young woman down on her luck. With a prison background, getting a decent paying job has been hard to find. Millie's been living in her car for awhile after being let go from her most recent job. When a high paying job arises working for the Winchesters, Millie can hardly believe her luck when she's offered the job. All she has to do is keep the house clean, take care of the Winchesters' daughter Cecelia, and cook for them. It's not too bad considering how much she's being paid. Plus, she'll be able to finally sleep in a bed! However, things drastically take a turn for the worst on Millie's first day. Nina Winchester (Seyfried), the wife, is constantly berating Millie and leaving big messes for her. She's gaslighting Millie at every turn. Is there a method to Nina's madness or is Nina really out to get Millie? (January 3 - February 14, 2025)

In Is God Is, twin sisters Racine and Anaia have disfiguring burn scars eking out a dismal existence in a city that doesn't feel like home. Though twins, they couldn't be more different. Racine, whose scars are only on her torso and hands, is the defender, hitting back at their many bullies since childhood. Anaia, whose scars have marked her face, is the quiet one, content to live in her sister's protective shadow. Their world is upended when the mother they'd believed long dead summons them to her bedside and reveals that their father is responsible for her bedridden state as well as the twins' scars. They listen in disbelief as she orders them to kill their father for what he has done. Will they take up arms and spill blood? Or find mercy on the road to confront the man who destroyed everything? Cole Franklin, an American mercenary, is recruited as a hired gun and guide at the remote outpost of Fort William, which is struggling to survive the decline of the fur trade. With dwindling supplies, the keepers of the Fort blackmail Cole into leading a trading party to a nearby Indigenous village where they discover a massacre and encounter the remaining half-crazed inhabitants for the bloodshed. Though the trading party survives with minimal losses and returns to the Fort with a bonanza of food and furs, the supernatural force responsible for the carnage follows them back. As the casualties stack up, it becomes evident that something unnatural is driving the residents insane with murderous hunger. The rag-tag band of survivors forces Cole to put his military expertise to use in organizing their last stand against what can only be described as some kind of madness.

Based on a true story, Kristallnacht is set in Berlin on the eve of war and follows police lieutenant Wilhelm Krützfeld (Owen) over the course of 24 hours as he navigates a city turned into a powder keg. Following the assassination of a German attaché in Paris, which is wrongfully labeled a “Jewish terrorist attack” by Nazi propaganda, the people turn on the perceived “enemy within” and violently descend on Jewish neighborhoods and places of worship. As the city spirals into chaos and dozens of innocent people are murdered, orders are handed down to “let the people riot.” Krützfeld is faced with the moral choice between upholding the system or taking a stand. Late Fame tells the story of Ed Saxberger (Dafoe), who wrote a book of poetry a long time ago that no one ever cared about. When a group of young artists rediscover his work, he must reassess his genius. The wild card in the group is Gloria (Lee), a talented and mercurial theatre actress who toys with affections and who is all set to be admired by Saxberger, this legendary figure from a gritty New York golden age. The film explores the illusory effect of praise on the soul, and the lingering ghostly presence of the past, whether it's imagined or vividly remembered.

Annie King hasn't felt much into her 30s. It's a blessing to be numb as a master puppet in a public relations government town like Victoria. Wife to a good man, mother to young kids, favorite daughter to an elderly mother, Millennial employee of the decade, she really had it all together until she didn't. A woman can only contain that kind of rage for so long, and this rage looks a lot like a 90s teenager busting into reality to take over - a 90s teenager that looks a lot like Annie. What could go right?

Set in the heart of contemporary Blackpool – the home of ballroom dance – The Light Fantastic follows Jason (Irvine), a thirty-something gay firefighter who dreams of becoming a professional dancer, as he competes alongside his best girl friend Shona, under the close watch of his ultra-traditional instructor Reynolds (Everett), and against the wishes of his disapproving, macho boyfriend Sean. Jason has always struggled to reconcile his sexuality with the flamboyant world of dance, but his carefully compartmentalized life is thrown into chaos when he is approached by Marco (Stewart-Jarrett), a handsome fellow ballroom aficionado, and his hilariously outspoken friend Reece (Williams), for dance classes.

Two years on from season one, and Caryl Huws (Sian Reese-Williams) still lives in the town of Llanemlyn. Her life has started afresh. Finally confronting the shackles of guilt and regret she had, she's decided to follow her dream of going back into education to become a journalist. Caryl attends an exhibition of a Welsh protestor's art and looks at photographs of families displaced by a controversial reservoir where activists are objecting about the planned extension. Prominent amongst the images is the image of Llyr Owen, a local young man who was killed in an explosion at the site of a planned expansion in 1995. At first glance it seemed that Llyr had died committing a terrorist act, but police soon found evidence implicating Llyr's cousin, best friend, and co-conspirator Rhys Owen (Mark Lewis Jones). Rhys protested his innocence of the murder but was convicted and sentenced to 22 years in prison. Caryl is fascinated with the newly announced expansion of the reservoir on everyone's lips and decides it's a subject she's passionate about – the story of a community and family torn apart by the reservoir. It's the story of her people, her town and with Rhys still protesting his innocence, she is compelled to investigate what really happened. It's the perfect story to land her that dream job with a local paper, and eventually lead us to the truth. (aka "Y GOLAU:DŴR")

This epic drama is set thousands of years before the events of J.R.R. Tolkien's The Hobbit and The Lord of the Rings, and will take viewers back to an era in which great powers were forged, kingdoms rose to glory and fell to ruin, unlikely heroes were tested, hope hung by the finest of threads, and the greatest villain that ever flowed from Tolkien's pen threatened to cover all the world in darkness. Beginning in a time of relative peace, the series follows an ensemble cast of characters, both familiar and new, as they confront the long-feared re-emergence of evil to Middle-earth. From the darkest depths of the Misty Mountains, to the majestic forests of the elf-capital of Lindon, to the breathtaking island kingdom of Númenor, to the furthest reaches of the map, these kingdoms and characters will carve out legacies that live on long after they are gone. The Gerald's, an African American family, is escaping the horrors of their inner-city neighborhood and starting anew with insurance money. The family moves far out to the suburbs, into an "All White" neighborhood to a home that's "technically" out of their price range. And alongside neighbors that "technically" might be racist. The choice between racist neighbors or drive by shootings seems easy price to pay... or is it?

A biopic about the family behind the high-performance automobiles that, along with Ferrari and Lamborghini, Italy is known for. Maserati was founded in 1914 in a garage in the central Italian city of Bologna by three brothers: Alfieri, Ettore and Ernesto. The trident that is the company's emblem is a replica of the one found in the Fountain of Neptune in Bologna. From early on the company, which is now known for exotic luxury cars, was tied to the world of auto racing. Maserati's first Grand Prix racing car, called "Type 26," is the vehicle that Alfieri Maserati was driving in the 1927 Messina Cup race when he had a near fatal crash. Alfieri died a few years later from complications related to that accident on March 3, 1932, at the age of 44. In 1937 the brothers, while remaining involved, sold a controlling stake in the company that is now owned by Fiat. In 1939, Wilbur Shaw won the Indianapolis 500 at the wheel of the Maserati "Boyle Special." He repeated the feat the following year, making Maserati the only European manufacturer to win the Indy 500 twice.

The series follows three best friends — gay gentlemen of a certain age — who, after an unexpected death, decide to spend their golden years living together in Palm Springs where the wealthiest one lives with his mother and a naked Gen Z housekeeper. As a chosen family, they prove that no matter how hard things get, there's always someone around to remind you it would be better if you got your neck done. Lane will play Bunny Schneiderman while Bomer will be Jerry Frank. Lavin will take over as Bunny's mother, Sybil Schneiderman. A successful businessman with one foot in retirement, Bunny is forever in search of love, but he first has to be convinced he's worthy of it. Like her son, Sybil's strengths are her weaknesses: wise, caring, and iconoclastic — which sometimes means she's critical, smothering and amoral. Jerry left the Mormon Church and his marriage in his early 20s after his wife informed him and the rest of the congregation that he was a homosexual. Now a latter-day saint in the literal sense of the term, Jerry is pure of heart. He is also hard of body and soft of head. (October 29 - January 29, 2025)

Follows the young couple Patrick (Gordon-Levitt) and Abigail on a journey to a new-age retreat in New Mexico, drawn by the possibility of healing after a traumatic event. Patrick is willing to do anything to help his wife but becomes distrustful of the retreat's enigmatic leader even as Abigail falls under her spell. As paranoia builds, the couple must determine if the group's unconventional spiritual practices offer genuine healing – or mask a terrifying truth that threatens to consume them both.

In the chilling sequel to The Postcard Killings, NYPD detective Jacob Kanon (Morgan) faces new terror. Haunted by his daughter's murder, Jacob is thrust back into the fray when his ex-wife Valerie (Janssen) is kidnapped by a new "Postcard Killer," who is on a brutal murder spree across Europe. The case spirals when Jacob confronts his old nemesis, Simon Haysmith (O'Hare), to track down the elusive criminal and initiate a manhunt. With Valerie held captive and only cryptic postcards for clues, Jacob must navigate a deadly maze to decipher the killer's vengeful plot. Caught in a tense cat-and-mouse game, Jacob races to rescue Valerie, before she becomes the next victim of the reborn fine art killer.

After Tova Sullivan's husband died, she began working the night shift at the Sowell Bay Aquarium, mopping floors and tidying up. Keeping busy has always helped her cope, which she's been doing since her eighteen-year-old son, Erik, mysteriously vanished on a boat in Puget Sound over thirty years ago. Tova becomes acquainted with curmudgeonly Marcellus, a giant Pacific octopus living at the aquarium. Marcellus knows more than anyone can imagine but wouldn't dream of lifting one of his eight arms for his human captors—until he forms a remarkable friendship with Tova. Ever the detective, Marcellus deduces what happened the night Tova's son disappeared. And now Marcellus must use every trick his old invertebrate body can muster to unearth the truth for her before it's too late.

They retreat to a remote Airbnb cabin, where things take a bizarre turn after Rose swims in a grimy pool. At 3 a.m., Martin is shocked to find two identical Roses: the real Rose inside and a duplicate emerging from the pool. Soon, more disturbing clones appear—each more deformed and sinister than the last. As the Roses multiply, they come to one conclusion: Martin is toxic, and the only way to stop him is to devour him alive.

Ben Richards is a desperate man. With no job, no money, no way out, and a young daughter in need of proper medical attention, he must turn to the only possibility of striking it rich in this near-future dystopian America: participating in the ultra-violent TV programming of the government-sanctioned Games Network. Ben soon finds himself selected as a contestant on the biggest and the best that the Games Network has to offer: "The Running Man," a no-holds-barred thirty-day struggle to stay alive as public enemy number one, relentlessly hunted by an elite strike force bent on killing him as quickly as possible in front of an audience all-too eager to see that happen. It means a billion dollars in prize money if he can live for the next month. No one has ever survived longer than eight days. But desperation can push a person do things they never thought possible—and Ben Richards is willing to go the distance in this ultimate game of life and death.

It is about a man's dream to travel to Syracuse in the island of Sicily, hindered by the fact that he is living in East Germany. In the early 19th century, Johann Gottfried Seume, an editor from Leipzig, decides to embark on a trip to Italy, just like Johann Wolfgang Goethe and many others did before him. This is pretty fashionable among the rich and famous at the time, and for many it's part of their Grand Tour. But Seume isn't rich or famous. He doesn't do his traveling in a carriage or with an entourage. He walks on foot.

A bromance comedy about the dynamics of friendship and growing up. Guillén portrays Paul, that one friend we all have whose invitation for "one drink" seems harmless but the next thing you know, you're drunk on a Tuesday, swaying in your kitchen eating dry top ramen out of the bag and wishing you hadn't just sent that text. Henry (Brener) is just trying to have a romantic weekend in Palm Springs with his new girlfriend Penny until Paul crashes their trip. And when Paul's pack of drug-laced cigarettes disappear into the hands of a stranger, the night really takes a turn.

The series takes place in the coastal town of Thunder Point, a place filled with lots of rugged charm and mystery. When newcomer Hank Cooper arrives to the town of Thunder Point to attend an old friend's funeral, he is surprised to learn that he's been left a beachfront property which has become the center of a town dispute. Cooper soon finds himself with a community's destiny in his hands as well as a lot of unanswered questions. Never being a man to settle in one place, Cooper finds himself drawn to both the town, and Sarah Dupre, a woman as complicated as she is beautiful.

Roosevelt, aka "Rose," is a charismatic, well-groomed, and reclusive hitman with a conscience, born into a family of assassins. By day, he operates out of Civil, a seemingly ordinary nonprofit organization. But beneath this charitable facade lies an elite, family-run agency that specializes in taking down high-profile targets. Rose's carefully balanced life unravels when his wife and daughter mysteriously vanish without a trace. Suspecting foul play, he embarks on a dangerous quest to uncover the truth, only to stumble upon a web of secrets that not only threaten his mission but force him to confront the darkest corners of his family's legacy—and question his own role within it. (aka "ROOSEVELT")

Fifteen-year-old Fawad Chaudhry loves two things: basketball and his mother's potato and ground beef stuffed parathas. Both are round and both help him forget about things like his father, who died two years ago, his mother's desire to arrange a marriage to his first cousin, Nusrat, back home in Pakistan, and the tiny apartment in Regent Park he shares with his mom and sister. Not to mention his estranged best friend Yousuf, who's coping with the shooting death of his older brother. But Fawad has plans: like, asking out Ashley, even though she lives on the other, wealthier side of the tracks, and saving his friend Arif from being beaten into a pulp for being the school flirt, and making the school basketball team and dreaming of being the world's first Pakistani to be drafted into the NBA. All he has to do now is convince his mother to let him try out for the basketball team. And let him date girls from his school. Not to mention somehow get Omar, the neighborhood bully, to leave him alone.

When young orphan Heathcliff (Elordi) is adopted by a wealthy gentleman, he quickly forms a close bond with his benefactor's daughter, Cathy (Robbie). But over the years, their childhood friendship morphs into a desperate, twisted, possessive love, as they wrestle with the violent and tyrannical rule of Cathy's brother and the confines of social class that keep them apart. What follows is an ingenious and darkly captivating narrative of frustrated passion and tortured heartbreak reverberating through the generations, wrought with all the brutality, power, and wildness of the Yorkshire moors.
