A workplace comedy about a group of teachers brought together in one of the worst public schools in the country, simply because they love teaching. The teachers will rely on each other to make it through the day and find a way to counteract the school district's bullshit attitude toward educating children. The eternally optimistic Janine is in her second-year teaching at an underfunded, underserved elementary school in her hometown of Philadelphia, where she comes up against jaded but devoted teachers, children in challenging situations and a principal who's basically out to lunch. (Season 4 wraps February 28, 2025)

The All-Girl Filling Station's Last Reunion tells the story of Mrs. Sookie Poole of Point Clear, Alabama, who has just married off her daughter and is looking forward to relaxing. The only thing left to contend with is her domineering mother, the formidable 90-year-old Lenore Simmons Krackenberry, who is obsessed with family lineage and Southern heritage. But when Sookie receives a series of mysterious letters that suggest that she's adopted, she gets sent down a rabbit hole of self-discovery, ultimately uncovering the swashbuckling story of Fritzi Jurdabralinski and her sisters, a daring group of women who ran the first All Girl Filling Station during WWII and ultimately became the first female Air Force pilots.

Sasha, a daring adventurer and widow, once rivaled Alex Honnold's feats, but grief has retired her from climbing. Living life solo, she embarks on a dangerous 30-mile canoe trip, only to discover her gear sabotaged and water poisoned. Stalked by Ben, a sadistic villain posing as a park ranger, Sasha becomes his captive. Forced to climb a treacherous rock face into a hidden cavern filled with ancient drawings, Sasha fights back, narrowly escaping before being recaptured. Injured and desperate, Sasha and Ben must free-solo an unforgiving rock face together—bound by a rope that ensures their fates are perilously entwined.

One fraught, momentous day in the life of Baruch Kotler, a Soviet Jewish dissident who now finds himself a disgraced Israeli politician. When he refuses to back down from a contrary but principled stand regarding the settlements in the West Bank, his political opponents expose his affair with a mistress decades his junior, and the besieged couple escapes to Yalta, the faded Crimean resort of Kotler's youth. There, shockingly, Kotler comes face-to-face with the former friend whose denunciation sent him to the Gulag almost 40 years earlier. In a whirlwind 24 hours, Kotler must face the ultimate reckoning, both with those who have betrayed him and with those whom he has betrayed, including a teenage daughter, a son facing his own moral dilemma in the Israeli army, and the wife who once campaigned to secure his freedom and stood by him through so much.

The Lincoln County War may be officially over, but both Billy the Kid and Sheriff Pat Garrett (Alex Roe) have important issues to resolve — there is a reckoning to come. Billy is still at large, and Garrett is out to capture him, dead or alive. And with a bounty on his head, Billy has the opportunity to quit New Mexico altogether and pursue a future with Dulcinea (Nuria Vega), the love of his life. But he has unfinished business with Garrett, who has betrayed him, and decides to stay. Meanwhile Jesse Evans (Daniel Webber), Billy's longtime friend, rival, and enemy, also remains in Lincoln, searching for a newfound purpose and perhaps atonement for his sins. As the final chapter in the saga comes to a close, Billy will fight like hell to try to finally find the justice that has long eluded him, even if it means he'll die trying. A friends-to-lovers dark romantic comedy full of murder, chaos, and spice, unlike anything you've heard before. Every serial killer needs a friend. Every game must have a winner. When a chance encounter sparks an unlikely bond between rival murderers Sloane and Rowan, the two find something elusive—the friendship of a like-minded, pitch-black soul. From small-town West Virginia to upscale California, from downtown Boston to rural Texas, the two hunters collide in an annual game of blood and suffering, one that pits them against the most dangerous monsters in the country. But as their friendship develops into something more, the restless ghosts left in their wake are only a few steps behind, ready to claim more than just their newfound love. Can Rowan and Sloane dig themselves out of a game of graves? Or have they finally met their match?

In a future where Spacers and Earthmen coexist, a faction of Spacers aims to revitalize their stagnant society by encouraging Earth's colonization efforts, despite Earth's anti-robot sentiment. Detective Elijah Baley teams up with R. Olivaw, a humanoid robot, to investigate Dr. Sarton's murder. Suspicion falls on Baley's superior, Commissioner Enderby, a secret Medievalist who accidentally killed Sarton, mistaking him for R. Daneel. Baley uncovers the truth, leveraging Enderby's guilt to align the Medievalists with the Spacer's colonization goals. The Spacers, prioritizing their broader mission, opt not to prosecute Enderby, ensuring the initiative to spread humanity to the stars proceeds.

Revolves around a woman called Violette Toussaint who is the caretaker for a cemetery in a small town in Burgundy. Violette is at the heart of this small world, populated by the local gravediggers and a young priest as well as the many visitors, who stop by her lodge and confide in her about their lives and lost ones. As she listens to these stories, some tragic, some comic, and reflects on questions of life, death, grief and the simple joys of life, her own painful backstory is revealed through a tragicomic prism.

Zélie Adebola (Mbedu) remembers when the soil of Orisha hummed with magic. Burners ignited flames, Tiders beckoned waves, and Zélie's Reaper mother summoned forth souls. Everything changed the night magic disappeared. Under the orders of a ruthless king, maji were killed, leaving Zélie without a mother and her people without hope. Now Zélie has one chance to bring back magic and strike against the monarchy. With the help of a rogue princess, Zélie must outwit and outrun the crown prince, who is hell-bent on eradicating magic for good. Danger lurks in Orisha, where snow leoponaires prowl and vengeful spirits wait in the waters. Yet the greatest danger may be Zélie herself as she struggles to control her powers—and her growing feelings for an enemy. (February 2025 - June 2025 | Release Date: January 17, 2027)

Crazy for Vincent begins with the death of the figure it fixates upon: Vincent Marmousez, a skateboarding, drug-addled, delicate “monster” of a boy in whom the narrator finds a most sublime beauty. By turns tender and violent, Vincent drops in and out of French writer and photographer Hervé Guibert's life over the span of six years (from 1982, when he first met Vincent as a fifteen-year-old teenager, to 1988). After Vincent's senseless death, the narrator embarks on a reconnaissance writing mission to retrieve the Vincent that had entered, elevated, and emotionally eviscerated his life, working chronologically backward from the death that opens the text.

Crossed is set in a post-apocalyptic world ravaged by a brutal pandemic that marks its victims with a cross-like rash on their faces. Those infected — known as the Crossed — are transformed into sadistic killers who retain their intellect but succumb to their darkest and most violent impulses. Imagine the worst crimes against humanity, the cruelest affronts to decency, and the most harrowing nightmares, all unleashed without restraint. Civilization crumbles in a single terrifying moment as people gleefully descend into unimaginable acts of violence. For the survivors, there is no help, no hope, and no escape — only a constant struggle for survival. The story follows a small, desperate group of people as they fight to stay alive and protect a child in a world where humanity is all but lost, and every moment brings new horrors.

The Cry of the Guards unfolds over the course of one night near a vast building site in sub-Saharan Africa. As project supervisor Horn is welcoming his young partner Léone into the hut he shares with young and impetuous engineer Cal, a black man called Alboury appears outside the railings surrounding their quarters. Inflexible, hovering like a ghost in the darkness, he is determined to stay there until they return the body of his brother to him, who was killed on the site. (aka “THE FENCE”)

Once an up and coming atomic physicist, Jason Dessen is now a workaday college professor who has been married to Daniela, the mother of their teenage son, for 16 years. When Jason joins his old friend Ryan Holder to celebrate Ryan's million dollar science prize, he is abducted on the way back home and wakes up celebrated for his brilliant scientific research and developments. But Jason has no recollection of his stellar career, his scientific associates, or of Amanda, the woman who insists that she is his committed romantic partner. Determined to find his way back to Daniela and the life he remembers, Jason escapes the laboratory where he is being held, triggering an all-out manhunt by his obsessive scientific associate Leighton Vance, who knows that Jason is the "key" to the success or failure of their life's work at the laboratory -- and who is intent upon tracking Jason down, whatever it takes. In a secluded forest, scientist Jonah (Kanell) thrives in her research on fungal networks, valuing solitude and data. When her employer imposes a deadline, Jonah's world shatters as she discovers she's living in a simulation. Bound by a contract she signed to donate her brain, Jonah realizes humanity has evolved into a digital existence, sustained by her fungal technology. Struggling with betrayal and isolation, she faces a harrowing choice: to end her consciousness or embrace the simulated reality. Finding meaning in the virtual, Jonah decides to cherish the experiences of joy, hope, and love, despite their artificial nature.

Debriefing the President is the story about a man's relentless quest for truth, a nation's complicated campaign for justice, and the bonds between fathers and sons. It tells, for the first time, the intimate story of two men at the heart of one of the 21st Century's most formative conflicts. In 2003, John Nixon (Kinnaman), a CIA analyst became the first American to positively identify and interrogate Saddam Hussein. During their time together, Nixon began to understand the potential consequences of the invasion, the humanitarian horrors and geopolitical turbulences that would follow Saddam's deposing. It's 1935 in Gyeongseong, and struggling artist Iho Yun has been commissioned by the reclusive, elderly Madam Jeonghwa Song to paint a portrait. Madam Jeonghwa Song allows Iho to set eyes upon her -- an unprecedented event -- and standing before him is a young woman. But why does she ask him to paint an elderly version of her? "Don't finish the portrait." Tucked between the previous artist's paint tubes is an ominous letter. Iho learns that no artist has left Madam Song's abode alive or of sound mind. Just what is she hiding and what will happen if Iho finishes the portrait?

Before the turn of the 20th century, a city emerged seemingly out of the ash of then dangerous Chicago, a dirty, grimy, teeming place ravaged by urban problems. Daniel H. Burnham, the main innovator of the White City of the 1892 World's Fair, made certain that it became the antithesis of its parent city, born to glow and gleam with all that the new century would soon offer. While the great city of the future was hastily being planned and built, the specially equipped apartment building of one Herman Webster Mudgett was also being constructed. Living in a nearby suburb and walking among the hundreds of thousands of visitors who would eventually attend the fair, Mudgett, a doctor by profession more commonly known as H.H. Holmes, was really an early serial killer who preyed on the young female fair goers pouring into Chicago. Using the fair as a means of attracting guests to a sparsely furnished "castle" where they ultimately met their end, Holmes committed murder, fraud, and numerous other crimes seemingly without detection until his arrest in 1894.

A procedural drama with comedic undertones. In it, brilliant but directionless, the great grandson of Albert Einstein (Gubler) spends his days as a comfortably tenured professor until his bad boy antics land him in trouble with the law and he is pressed into service helping a local police detective solve her most puzzling cases. Gubler's Lew Einstein is a popular professor at Princeton... when he actually shows up for class. Irreverent and misguided, Lew's genius and famous name weighs heavily on him but using his gift to help solve homicides may— finally— offer his life some direction and purpose. Salazar's Maddie Paris is a Detective Inspector for the New Jersey State Police, who went into law enforcement after the death of her husband. Sharp and disciplined, Maddie demands a lot from her colleagues and even more from herself and feels conflicted about working with Professor Lew Einstein.

It takes place on a long-haul flight. And quite soon after take-off, the crew of the flight is telling the passengers that the entertainment system is down. They are now stuck on a 15 or 17 hour-long flight without any digital entertainment. They don't have the screens that we are so used to in our contemporary world. So, it's going to be like a study of how human beings interact in this little laboratory that is a plane. It will look at how modern human beings are wrecked under these circumstances.

Based on the life of Muhammad Ali. Growing up in the South, surrounded by racial bigotry and discrimination, Ali fought not just for a living, but also for respect and rewards far more precious than money or glory. He was named Sportsman of the Century by Sports Illustrated and the BBC. Ali redefined what it meant to be an athlete by giving hope to millions around the world and inspiring us all to fight for what is important to us. This is a multifaceted portrait of Muhammad Ali only he could render: sports legend, unapologetic anti-war advocate, outrageous showman and gracious goodwill ambassador, fighter, lover, poet, and provocateur, and an irresistible force to be reckoned with. Centuries before the events of A Game of Thrones, House Targaryen—the only family of dragonlords to survive the Doom of Valyria—took up residence on Dragonstone. Fire & Blood begins their tale with the legendary Aegon the Conqueror, creator of the Iron Throne, and goes on to recount the generations of Targaryens who fought to hold that iconic seat, all the way up to the civil war that nearly tore their dynasty apart. Considine will play King Viserys Targaryen, chosen by the lords of Westeros to succeed the Old King, Jaehaerys Targaryen, at the Great Council at Harrenhal. A warm, kind, and decent man, Viserys only wishes to carry forward his grandfather’s legacy. But good men do not necessarily make for great kings. Smith is Prince Daemon Targaryen, younger brother to King Viserys and heir to the throne. A peerless warrior and a dragon rider, Daemon possess the true blood of the dragon. But it is said that whenever a Targaryen is born, the gods toss a coin in the air. Cooke plays Alicent Hightower, the daughter of Otto Hightower, the Hand of the King, and the comeliest woman in the Seven Kingdoms. She was raised in the Red Keep, close to the king and his innermost circle; she possesses both a courtly grace and a keen political acumen. D’Arcy’s Princess Rhaenyra Targaryen is the king’s first-born child, she is of pure Valyrian blood, and she is a dragonrider. Many would say that Rhaenyra was born with everything... but she was not born a man.

Ava, Tina, Rebelle and Frances secretly operate a computer club while trapped at Lady Booring's School Of Traditional Wisdom For Young Ladies, a hyper-traditional private school where computers, smartphones, and other modern necessities are banned. Each girl was sent there as punishment for a different perceived “fault” in the hope that Lady B's will instill some lady-like qualities in them. Planning a huge year-end prank designed to ruin the school's reputation becomes their ultimate rebellion and the only power they wield in response to the oppression. Comedy runs amok because, let's face it, girls are simultaneously weird, funny, and gross. There are also betrayals, trolls, romances, and (eek!) school dances with the boys from McCall Hall. Anyone is welcome in Lady Ada's Secret Society as long as they keep to the code.

Late Fame tells the story of Ed Saxberger (Dafoe), who wrote a book of poetry a long time ago that no one ever cared about. When a group of young artists rediscover his work, he must reassess his genius. The wild card in the group is Gloria (Lee), a talented and mercurial theatre actress who toys with affections and who is all set to be admired by Saxberger, this legendary figure from a gritty New York golden age. The film explores the illusory effect of praise on the soul, and the lingering ghostly presence of the past, whether it's imagined or vividly remembered.

Mickey Haller (Manuel Garcia-Rulfo) gets the text, "Call me ASAP—187," and the California penal code for murder immediately gets his attention. Murder cases have the highest stakes and the biggest paydays, and they always mean Haller has to be at the top of his game. When Mickey learns that the victim was his own former client, a prostitute he thought he had rescued and put on the straight and narrow path, he knows he is on the hook for this one. He soon finds out that she was back in LA and back in the life. Far from saving her, Mickey may have been the one who put her in danger. Haunted by the ghosts of his past, Mickey must work tirelessly and bring all his skill to bear on a case that could mean his ultimate redemption or proof of his ultimate guilt. Editor Susan Ryeland has left her Greek island, her hotel and her Greek boyfriend, Andreas, in search of a new life back in England. Freelancing for a London publisher, she's given the last job she wants: working on an Atticus Pünd continuation novel called Pünd's Last Case. Worse still, she knows the new writer. Eliot Crace is the troubled grandson of legendary children's author Miriam Crace who died twenty years ago. Eliot is convinced she was murdered—by poison. To her surprise, Susan enjoys reading the manuscript which is set in the South of France and revolves around the mysterious death of Lady Margaret Chalfont, days before she was about to change her will. But when it is revealed that Lady Margaret was also poisoned, alarm bells begin to ring. The more Susan reads, the clearer it becomes that Eliot has deliberately concealed clues about his grandmother's death inside the book. Desperately, Susan tries to prevent Eliot from putting himself in harm's way—but his behaviour is becoming increasingly erratic. Another murder follows . . . and suddenly Susan finds herself to be the number one suspect. Once again, the real and the fictional worlds have become dangerously entangled. And if Susan doesn't solve the mystery of Pünd's Last Case, she could well be its next victim.

In the 14th century, Prince Prospero's kingdom is devastated by the Red Death, a swift and deadly virus. To protect the aristocracy, Prospero seals the kingdom, branding the plague a "peasant disease." His sister, Duchess Margarita, opposes this cruel isolation, leading to her exile. In the wilderness, Margarita meets Isabel, her long-lost twin, born of a chambermaid and presumed dead. Tragedy strikes as Margarita succumbs to the Red Death, prompting Isabel and her daughter, Rose, to seek refuge within the kingdom's walls. Assuming Margarita's identity, Isabel enters the castle with Rose posing as her savior. Prospero welcomes his "sister" back, but Isabel soon discovers Margarita was despised, and enemies, including the vengeful handmaidens, lurk around every corner. Isabel also contends with the lecherous Franz, whose relationship with Margarita horrifies her. Navigating royal politics, Isabel uncovers a web of betrayal and brutality, culminating in Prospero's macabre display of power—forcing Franz into a fatal duel disguised as a bear. As family members die mysteriously, Isabel questions if survival inside the kingdom is worth the price. Confronted with deception and death, she wonders if life beyond the walls, amidst the plague, might offer a more humane fate.

Canon Daniel Clement is Rector of Champton. He has been there for eight years, living at the Rectory alongside his widowed mother - opinionated, fearless, ever-so-slightly annoying Audrey - and his two dachshunds, Cosmo and Hilda. When Daniel announces a plan to install a lavatory in church, the parish is suddenly (and unexpectedly) divided: as lines are drawn, long-buried secrets come dangerously close to destroying the apparent calm of the village. And then Anthony Bowness - cousin to Bernard de Fluores, patron of Champton - is found dead at the back of the church, stabbed in the neck with a pair of secateurs. As the police moves in and the bodies start piling up, Daniel is the only one who can try and keep his fractured community together... and catch a killer.

Nanny Cam is a harrowing tale of a seemingly normal middle class American Family that transitions from the city to a small town rural life following the birth of their first child. The stress and pressures of a new born daughter compounded with the eerie traits of an unfamiliar rundown house on the outskirts of an unusual little town brings our leading lady to question her sanity as she begins seeing bizarre things on the newly installed "Nanny Cameras" throughout the house. Is the stress getting to her or is there something more sinister at play?

Rose Howard has Asperger's syndrome, and an obsession with homonyms (even her name is a homonym). She gave her dog Rain a name with two homonyms (Reign, Rein), which, according to Rose's rules of homonyms, is very special. Rain was a lost dog Rose's father brought home. Rose and Rain are practically inseparable. And they are often home alone, as Rose's father spends most evenings at a bar, and doesn't have much patience for his special-needs daughter. Just as a storm hits town, Rain goes missing. Rose's father shouldn't have let Rain out. Now Rose has to find her dog, even if it means leaving her routines and safe places to search. Rose will find Rain, but so will Rain's original owners.

Morgan Grant (Williams) and her sixteen-year-old daughter, Clara (Grace), would like nothing more than to be nothing alike. Morgan is determined to prevent her daughter from making the same mistakes she did. By getting pregnant and married way too young, Morgan put her own dreams on hold. Clara doesn't want to follow in her mother's footsteps. Her predictable mother doesn't have a spontaneous bone in her body. With warring personalities and conflicting goals, Morgan and Clara find it increasingly difficult to coexist. The only person who can bring peace to the household is Chris—Morgan's husband, Clara's father, and the family anchor. But that peace is shattered when Chris is involved in a tragic and questionable accident. The heartbreaking and long-lasting consequences will reach far beyond just Morgan and Clara. While struggling to rebuild everything that crashed around them, Morgan finds comfort in the last person she expects to, and Clara turns to the one boy she's been forbidden to see. With each passing day, new secrets, resentment, and misunderstandings make mother and daughter fall further apart. So far apart, it might be impossible for them to ever fall back together. After Tova Sullivan's husband died, she began working the night shift at the Sowell Bay Aquarium, mopping floors and tidying up. Keeping busy has always helped her cope, which she's been doing since her eighteen-year-old son, Erik, mysteriously vanished on a boat in Puget Sound over thirty years ago. Tova becomes acquainted with curmudgeonly Marcellus, a giant Pacific octopus living at the aquarium. Marcellus knows more than anyone can imagine but wouldn't dream of lifting one of his eight arms for his human captors—until he forms a remarkable friendship with Tova. Ever the detective, Marcellus deduces what happened the night Tova's son disappeared. And now Marcellus must use every trick his old invertebrate body can muster to unearth the truth for her before it's too late. (March 3 - April 11, 2025)

Into the cut-throat world of Corinium television comes Declan O'Hara, a mega-star of great glamour and integrity with a radiant feckless wife, a son and two teenage daughters. Living rather too closely across the valley is Rupert Campbell-Black, divorced and as dissolute as ever, and now the Tory Minister for Sport. Declan needs only a few days at Corinium to realize that the Managing Director, Lord Baddingham, is a crook who has recruited him merely to help retain the franchise for Corinium. Baddingham has also enticed Cameron Cook, a gorgeous but domineering executive, to produce Declan's program. Declan and Cameron detest each other, provoking a storm of controversy into which Rupert plunges with his usual abandon. As a rival group emerges to pitch for the franchise, reputations ripen and decline, true love blossoms and burns, marriages are made and shattered, and sex raises its (delicious) head at almost every throw as, in bed and boardroom, the race is on to capture the Cotswold Crown.

A heartwarming true-life fable from the Radio City Christmas Spectacular Santa—including his personal journey of discovering the magic of Christmas. Every year, over a million people attend the Radio City Christmas Spectacular, where they have the pleasure of seeing Charles Edward Hall don a traditional red suit and become the world's most famous Santa Claus—a role he has played for twenty-seven straight years. But Hall wasn't always such a jolly old soul. Believe it or not, this Santa was once a Scrooge. For the first time, Charles tells the inspiring story of his own transformation, from a wide-eyed child who once caught a glimpse of Santa through a frosty windowpane, to a young man who lost his faith in jolly old Saint Nick. It wasn't until fate intervened, in the form of an unexpected role, a stage malfunction, and hundreds of letters from children, that Charles rediscovered his Christmas spirit. Ultimately, he realized Radio City was his life's work, and that Santa isn't just a role. He lives in the hearts of the millions who attend the Radio City Christmas Spectacular, and everyone who embraces the Christmas spirit. Santa Claus, in other words, is real. When Charles needed him most, Santa was there, with kind words and a special gift. As this delightful true-life fable proves, he is there for everyone. All it takes is a good heart, an honest joy, and a belief in the magic of Christmas.

Comedy-adventure horror about Linda, a put-upon employee and her jerk boss Bradley. On a business flight together with their company, the plane crashes on an island and only those two make it. She has serious survival skills which means she's his only.

STATUS: Development

A live-action adaptation of the Korean anime, set in a world where hunters — human warriors who possess supernatural abilities — must battle deadly monsters to protect mankind from certain annihilation, a notoriously weak hunter named Sung Jin-woo finds himself in a seemingly endless struggle for survival. One day, after narrowly surviving an overwhelmingly powerful double dungeon that nearly wipes out his entire party, a mysterious program called the System chooses him as its sole player and in turn, gives him the unique ability to level up in strength. This is something no other hunter is able to do, as a hunter's abilities are set once they awaken. Jinwoo then sets out on a journey as he fights against all kinds of enemies, both man and monster, to discover the secrets of the dungeons and the true source of his powers. He soon discovers that he has been chosen to inherit the position of Shadow Monarch, essentially turning him into an immortal necromancer who has absolute rule over the dead. He is the only Monarch who fights to save humanity, as the other Monarchs are all trying to kill him and wipe out the humans.

A prequel to Star Trek: The Original Series, the story of the USS Enterprise and a young Spock serving under the command of Captain Christopher Pike. Star Trek: Strange New Worlds is based on the years Captain Christopher Pike manned the helm of the U.S.S. Enterprise. The series will feature fan favorites from season two of Star Trek: Discovery: Anson Mount as Captain Christopher Pike, Rebecca Romijn as Number One and Ethan Peck as Science Officer Spock. The series will follow Captain Pike, Science Officer Spock and Number One in the years before Captain Kirk boarded the U.S.S. Enterprise, as they explore new worlds around the galaxy. The Terminal List is a conspiracy thriller that combines elevated action with deep psychological questions about the cost of pushing our nation's highest trained operators too far. The series follows James Reece (Pratt) after his entire platoon of Navy SEALs is ambushed during a high-stakes covert mission. Reece returns home to his family with conflicting memories of the event and questions about his culpability. However, as new evidence comes to light, Reece discovers dark forces working against him, endangering not only his life but the lives of those he loves. Wu will play Katie Buranek, a risk-seeking war correspondent who uses her byline to speak truth to power. Katie left her desk at a prestigious news outlet to pursue high-impact stories on her own terms. Now at a crossroads in her career, Katie finds an unlikely ally in rogue Navy SEAL James Reece. She seeks to re-enter the mainstream by bringing the truth about Reece and the conspiracy he's fighting against to light. (2025 - November 28, 2025)

Scott Treder, a 47-year-old biology technician, lives a peaceful life with his wife, Amy, and their seven-year-old son, Lyle. His routine world shatters when, one day, his car vanishes beneath him, leaving him stranded and bewildered. Amy is stunned to learn Scott didn't return home, sparking confusion and suspicion. As Scott resumes his daily life, he experiences an inexplicable leap in time, skipping two days in an instant. The jumps escalate, doubling each time, pulling Scott further into an uncertain future. Struggling to convince his skeptical wife and baffled colleagues, Scott finds himself under public scrutiny as the phenomenon gains attention. As his time leaps extend from days to years, the strain fractures his marriage, leaving Amy to seek solace in divorce. Meanwhile, Lyle dedicates his life to understanding his father's mysterious condition, evolving from a curious child into a determined scientist. Society crumbles into chaos as Scott's unpredictable appearances turn him into both a legend and a target. On his final jump, Scott reunites with an aged Lyle, who has constructed an elaborate solution to end the relentless time jumps. In a race against time and fate, Scott faces the ultimate question: can he escape his temporal prison, or is he destined to leap into oblivion forever?

It centers around Melinda Monroe, who answers an ad to work as a nurse practitioner in the remote California town of Virgin River thinking it will be the perfect place to start fresh and leave her painful memories behind. But she soon discovers that small-town living isn't quite as simple as she expected and that she must learn to heal herself before she can truly make Virgin River her home.

Season Five of Virgin River features surprising new relationships, a shocking break-up, a difficult court trial, a heartbreaking goodbye, and a wildfire that threatens the town, bringing some people of Virgin River together while tearing others apart. Issues of motherhood push Mel to make a big decision about her future at the clinic while her pregnancy unexpectedly sparks an emotional connection to her past. To further prove himself to Mel, Jack squares off with some long-overdue confrontations—with his own demons, and of course, Charmaine. And as Doc and Hope's respective impairments throw their identities into question, the doctor and the mayor must find solace in their community, in their young new family, and in each other.

Breezing into the upscale seaside paradise of Westport, Connecticut, gorgeous thirtysomething Piper Reynard sets down roots, opening a rehab and wellness space and joining a local yacht club. When she meets Leo Drakos, a handsome, successful lawyer, the wedding ring on his finger is the only thing she doesn’t like about him. Yet as Piper well knows, no marriage is permanent. Meanwhile, Joanna has been waiting patiently for Leo, the charismatic man she fell in love with all those years ago, to re-emerge from the severe depression that has engulfed him. Though she’s thankful when Leo returns to his charming, energetic self, paying attention again to Evie and Stelli, the children they both love beyond measure, Joanna is shocked to discover that it’s not her loving support that’s sparked his renewed happiness—it’s something else. Piper. Leo has fallen head over heels for the flaky, New Age-y newcomer, and unrepentant and resolute, he’s more than willing to leave Joanna behind, along with everything they’ve built. Of course, he assures her, she can still see the children. Joanna is devastated—and determined to find something, anything, to use against this woman who has stolen her life and her true love. As she digs deeper into Piper’s past, Joanna begins to unearth disturbing secrets . . . but when she confides to her therapist that she fears for the lives of her ex-husband and children, her concerns are dismissed as paranoia. Can she find the proof she needs in time to save them?
